Planning Board Sets Guidelines for 5,800 New Housing Units In Next Two Decades

How can Princeton handle its housing needs -- and demands! -- over the next 20 years?

The Planning Board's housing sub-committee explained in detail to the full Planning Board on Tuesday night its updated plan for answering that question.

"This plan is a guide," explains housing chairman Golda Gottlieb, "an approach we hope will give us the kind of housing we want. There are no guarantees it will work, but we have to try."

The plan will now be considered by the whole Planning Board, but since practically every member of the board is on the housing sub-committee, this shouldn't take very long. Then it will be laid before both governing bodies -- at the same time, Mrs. Gottlieb hopes, glancing at the calendar -- and maybe late in May, the public will be invited to a series of meetings to exchange ideas with the Planning Board.

Plan highlights:

- Between 1976 and 1996, Princeton is expected to grow from its present 26,000 population to an estimated 40,000.
- The plan calls for 5,800 new housing units.
- There will still be room for the usual single family house built on a piece of land by a private owner.
- Developers will be held to a minimum -- probably of 100 acres.
- At least 35 percent of the units must be for people in the low-through-moderate income range.
- The Planning Board will control the distribution of kinds and sizes of homes, and of open space.
- The Board will decide whether a site is suitable by following a list of specific criteria on drainage, access to sewers and roads, environmental impact and so on.

When the first housing plan was presented, exactly three years ago, in May of 1973, it showed "villages" of townhouses, multi-family apartments, single-family homes, drawn on a map of Princeton and shown as specific sites.

"We have learned a very strong lesson," Mrs. Gottlieb observes.

It was taught by the Real Estate Research Corporation, hired by the Planning Board with money from a state grant, to find out whether the 1973 plan was financially feasible. The lesson: don't pin-point village sites or land costs will zoom.

Instead of village sites, therefore, the new plan has five "sectors". One is the center of town -- the entire Borough and the contiguous, built-up areas of the Township. Plans for that District One, as it's called, aren't quite ready yet, and weren't part of the presentation Tuesday night.

Sector Two is the northeast part of the Township, Sector Three -- the largest -- is the north middle of the

Mayor Bleiman Not to Seek New Term on Township Committee; Democrats May Have Primary Race - GOP Cupboard Seems Bare

Jay Bleiman, who has been a Township Committee member for six years and mayor or acting mayor for four, said this week that he will not run again.

And in the Borough, a Democratic party not so united as it once was, may end up with more names on the ballot than there are Council seats to fill. The primary is Tuesday, June 8. Deadline for filing is next Thursday, April 29.

Jay Bleiman

"It is with a sense of deep regret," Mayor Bleiman said, "that I have asked the Princeton Community Democratic Organization not to consider me for re-nomination as its candidate."

Mayor Bleiman is director of graduate placement and director of the mid-career program at the Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs at Princeton University. He was named to the former post last September and he said this week that increased responsibilities at the school and personal reasons as well, made him decide not to run again.

Two Seats Open. Two places on Committee are open this year, unless the Appelate Court rules that Tod Peyton was the winner in last fall's election. The case of the faulty election machine is due to be heard in that court next Monday. Mr. Bleiman's is a regular three-year seat; the second is a two-year term, filling out the term of the ghostly fifth member of this year's Committee.

Neither Democrats nor Republicans will tell who's going to run under their banner.

In the Borough, Democrat Martin P. Lombardo has said he will run for his third term on Council. Joseph P. Moore, also a Democrat, like everyone else on this year's Council, says he will not seek a third term.

There is a third Council seat to be filled. It is the one occupied by Jan Schneier, who was appointed to fill it after the January 1 resignation of Barbara Sigmund, who left Council to become a Freeholder. This is a two-year seat.

Democrats Divided. The Democratic party in the Borough is not wholly a harmonious party this spring, although party members say it has little to do with last fall's division over endorsing Mrs. Sigmund as Freeholder.

The executive committee of the P.C.D.O. is interviewing people who have said they might like to run, perhaps next year, if not this. Ms. Schneier is among them. So is Marvin Trotman, guidance counsellor at Princeton High School, who is reported to have said that he'll run for Council whether he gets the P.C.D.O. nod or not. Mr. Trotman, who is black, has the support of Mr. Moore; Ms. Schneier and her husband Joseph Stonaker, who is a figure of power in Borough Democratic politics; Alan Wallack, deputy chairman of the party in the Borough and several county committeemen and committeewomen.

Others who have been interviewed are Ike Ballard, who is also black; Henry Powsner, a former member of the school board; and Irv Urken, who is active in Princeton's business world.

Interviews are continuing. Other people may appear, some of those mentioned above may be called back, some may withdraw. The vote by the P.C.D.O. executive committee may be this Thursday.

Borough Republicans have no such embarrassment of riches. They are still actively searching for candidates.

RELIEF FOR BOROUGH?

Bill May Be Voted On. A phasing-in bill which would ease the school aid burden for Borough taxpayers may be voted out of committee and onto the State Senate floor for action Monday.

The measure has passed the Assembly, 69-0. Attorney Robert Wilentz, representing the Borough, Plainsboro and other New Jersey municipalities, has said he thinks the measure has a chance of passing the Senate. However, State Senator Stephen Wiley, a strong opponent of any change in the thorough-and-efficient education bill, could bring about the defeat of this change, Borough officials fear.

The measure would give the Borough some relief by phasing in the new, state-ordered system of sharing school costs by rateables, rather than by number of pupils, as Princeton's school district has done in the past.

Under the phasing plan, school costs would be shared the first year on a ratio of 20 percent rateables – 80 percent per pupil. The second year, the ratio would be 40 percent – 60 percent. The third year, the ratio would be 80 percent – 20 percent, and finally the costs would be shared wholly on a rateables basis.

Borough officials have suggested that if the bill is not voted out of committee in time for a vote before the May 10 deadline for setting the tax rate, municipalities could obtain an injunction to keep the state from implementing the thorough-and-efficient law until the law has been funded.

COMPROMISE?

Maybe, on School Budget. Still hoping for a compromise acceptable to the two governing bodies and the school board, Borough and Township governments have asked the school board to request postponement of the May 4 date set for a pre-hearing conference on the disputed school budget. The conference has been set for 9:30 a.m. in the office of the county superintendent of schools.

The tax rate is "struck"; – that is, fixed for the year – on May 10. Township Mayor Jay Bleiman reported Monday night on a meeting last week with Borough Mayor Robert W. Cawley, school board president Dietrich Meyerhofer, vice-president Joan Doig and Borough Council member Gus Escher. He said the group "blocked out areas" for possible compromise.

The school board was not quite so eager to ask postponement of the May 4 pre-hearing. They questioned the need for postponement if talks with the two governing bodies were proving fruitful. No date has been set for future talks.

BUY QUARRY PARK?

Ordinance, But No Price. An ordinance to finance purchase of land around the Spruce Street quarry for a Borough park will be introduced at a special Council meeting next Wednesday, April 28, at 7:30 p.m. in Borough Hall.

However, Council hasn't yet decided what dollar amount to insert for purchase of the land. An application for state open space money is bogged down in a rules-change imposed by the state in the middle of the game. The state must now appraise the property itself, if any state money is to be forthcoming.

NEW PRINCIPAL?

Board May Announce. The name of the new principal of the Middle School may be announced at next Tuesday's regular meeting of the school board. The meeting will be held at 8 p.m. in Community Park.

The meeting date is a "target date", for making the announcement, said school board secretary William Evans. He did not promise that the board would be ready.

5,800 Housing Units

Township and Sector Four is the northwest. Sector Five is the southwest. In all, these sectors total 1,165 acres – excluding District One.

The housing sub-committee recommends passage of a Planned Residential Development ordinance superimposed on the present zoning ordinances of Borough and Township.

Criteria Listed. It would work like this. Any landowners could develop property under current zoning regulations regarding density and use. But if they want a higher density, they would assemble a package of land from various owners, or perhaps buy the property of a single owner. The minimum, as indicated above, would probably be 100 acres; the maximum, 600 acres.

Operating under the PRD ordinance, developers would have to meet criteria for evaluating the site. Does it have, or is it close to, roads and sewers? What's the drainage situation? There are about a dozen of these criteria.

One of the chief things developers would have to do is subsidize 35 percent of the units to provide houses for people with low and moderate incomes.

(Actually, the housing subcommittee wants 48 percent of each village to be in this category, but the Real Estate Research Corporation says it isn't economically feasible to ask developers to subsidize more than 35 percent. The other 13 percent would have to be subsidized by other money, perhaps Federal or state).

Bonus Offered. As a lump of sugar to lure developers into this plan, the sub-committee recommends a "density bonus" of six units per acre. The overall plan allows 4.2 units per acre.

"We give the developer higher density than he'd normally get under the regular zoning ordinance," Mrs. Gottlieb explains, "and in return he provides the 'internal subsidy' for low-income units."

The so-called "capture of increment" in the value of land is an essential, and indeed major, feature of the plan.

A developer who assembles a package of several hundred acres at, say, $10,000 an acre and receives Planning Board approval to develop a village on it without the risk and hassle of getting zoning variances, has a piece of property which has increased spectacularly in value from its original price.

"We've provided incentive without paying the developer a cent," is the way one member of the housing subcommittee said it.

Concept Is New. Given the chance to acquire enough land, the housing committee says, there are developers who can deliver, under this plan. But it is a relatively new idea, perhaps even a pioneering one.

One untried aspect of this plan is this -- if you're affluent, would you buy or rent a house when a low-income family lives just down the street?

Keeping and strengthening Princeton's socio-economic mix is a cardinal principle of the whole Planning Board.

"The board has acknowledged its responsibility to provide for people living in sub-standard housing, those paying too high a rent in proportion to their income -- and that means more than 25 percent of their income – and people who work here but can't afford to live here," Mrs. Gottlieb has pointed out.

However, if you're talking about 5,800 housing units divided into four sectors, that's 1,450 homes per sector. This is a large enough village to absorb quite a mix without friction, planners say. They quote reports of similar successful projects in Massachusetts and, still in the development stage, Roosevelt (Welfare) Island, New York.

Comparisons Offered. In case 5,800 housing units sounds like a lot, the housing committee's density figure is 4.2 units per acre. This means that the minimum 100-acre village would have 420 units, or not quite two Princeton Community Village projects. PCV has 35.5 acres.

Originally, in 1973, the housing committee planned areas ("A" and "B") with lower density than the rest. But the Real Estate Research Corporation said there was no way that homes in a moderate range could be provided in such areas. So these sectors were eliminated, and the 1,600 housing units represented by them were distributed in other villages.

The proposed PRD ordinance would have a built-in "growth-timing mechanism." This means the Planning Board would regulate the amount of development in any one sector. Developers might have to wait.

All of this, of course, applies to the Township. Sector 1, the hard core, has been the subject of intensive study by William Queale, the Planning Board consultant. His proposals are expected to be much more specific than the housing plans presented Tuesday.

Maintain Character. For example, he's expected to recommend areas appropriate for conversions of homes, what neighborhoods are best for a mix of offices and homes, how much can be expected in new building, what guidelines should be followed to make sure there isn't too much congestion.

And above all, how to maintain the present character of Princeton. As Mrs. Gottlieb has observed,

"We're assuming there will be great demand for housing – we want to be able to control it. We're not saying 'We've got to have it'."

Princeton, like every other New Jersey community, is aware of the Mt. Laurel court decision and the recent executive order of Governor Brendan T. Byrne. Towns can no longer zone out lower-income families by establishing large lot-sizes and even more, communities are now required to provide for low and moderate-income earners.

The housing committee believes its new proposals maintain the character of the community and meet Mt. Laurel as well.

MOTHS MUST GO

Spray Program Affirmed. The gypsy moth was declared an enemy of the state by Township Committee Monday night, and Committee voted, 3-1 to join the state's spray program.

The vote came after a long discussion, initiated by Committeewoman Elizabeth Hutter, of changes she wanted in the resolution. As revised, the resolution limits the spray area to the part of Mt. Lucas the state says is heavily infested, and it urges the state to use biological controls of the moth. In the end, after much haggling overwordage, Mrs. Hutter voted against the resolution. She had done so earlier this month out of concern that too many other neighborhoods would want to be sprayed.

The ordinance providing for reconstruction of the Braeburn Drive culvert was scheduled for introduction; however, after a lengthy discussion, Committee decided to postpone action to May 3. Before that date, Township officials will send the ordinance to the Flood Control and Environmental Commissions, and also to neighbors, for study. The Random Road sewer, also scheduled for uneventful discussion, met a similar fate but at least it got introduced. Hearing was scheduled for June 7 to allow for talks with affected property - owners. Mrs. Hutter abstained in the 3-0 vote.

There were no citizens present at Monday night's meeting, so the public hearing on the salary ordinance was mute. Committee passed the ordinance unanimously.

It provides increases for top Township officials, including a 7 percent increase for Police Chief Frederick Porter (from $20,073 to $21,478) and a 5 percent increase for Administrator Joseph R. Nini (from $27,000 to $28,350). The seven percent increase is in the police salary package. Civilian employees receive the five percent increment. The ordinance provides for a 2.5 percent increment every three years for senior staff — those who have served over eight years — in addition to whatever increments are decided on for employees, across the board.

Committee also passed the contract for municipal attorney Gordon Griffin. It provides a retainer fee of $12,500, up from the current $12,000 figure, with a $50 hourly cost for additional services.

The retainer covers Mr. Griffin's work for Committee and all other boards except zoning and planning, and the services of his law firm as assistant attorney and prosecutor in municipal court. Litigation or dealing with property owners for easements and the like, comes under the hourly rate.

An ordinance providing for control of pesticide companies was scheduled for introduction, but set aside for further study in a work session set for this Friday at 2 p.m.

A resolution proposed by Committee member Josie Hall asking the state to consider alternatives to the present route of I-95, was set aside for study.

Committee named Gerald Breese to the Planning Board, term to expire December 31.

CARNEGIE BACK

Before Township Zoning. It will be round three in the match between Carnegie Development and the Township Zoning Board when the developer meets the board again next April 28, at 7:30 p.m. in Township Hall.

Carnegie wants to build 108 townhouses on land between Mt. Lucas and State Roads. The detailed nature of Carnegie's plans and the complex sewer and engineering questions involved have required two meetings already. At next Wednesday's meeting, Planning Board attorney William Miller is expected to question Carnegie's planner, and Carnegie is expected once again to question Township engineer Joseph Hodak.

In other business, the board will hear the request of Princeton Bank and Trust for a variance to build a drive-in on the Bamberger side of the Princeton Shopping Center; the plans of Marie Shamyer, 42 Cuyler Road, to operate a nursery school in her home and the request of Eleanor Drorbaugh, 188 Jefferson Road, to enlarge a prior non-conforming house.

Surroundings May Help, Even if Fountain Is Dry

Monday morning, April 12, dawned bright and cold. So cold — at 25 degrees — that many flowering shrubs and trees (Japanese cherries, magnolias, and more) turned brown. It had been a short spring.

Saturday morning, April 17, five days later, dawned warm, and grew warmer. From 68 degrees around sunrise, the temperature ran steadily toward the 90s. Shortly after noon, when it reached 92, a 100-year old heat record had been broken.

Next day — Easter Sunday — thermometers reached 96, hotter than the maximum recorded temperature sometimes during an entire summer. It had been a short spring.

When the heat remained on the next day, more records fell. April had produced single-day readings in the 90s since the National Weather Service first began to record such matters about 108 years ago, but never on two consecutive days. And then Monday made three.

There were various ways to beat the heat's early arrival ranging from air conditioning (if units that had not yet been serviced worked satisfactorily) to the power of suggestion. Princeton University undergraduate Jim Margolis tried the latter — sitting where the still silent fountain has on other occasions filled the pool near the Woodrow Wilson School on Washington Road, where photographer Cliff Moore spotted him.

A high pressure system, stalled over the Atlantic Ocean, has been the villain (if you don't like all that warmth), or merely the cause (if you rejoice that winter has finally been replaced by whatever season we are having now).

BATIO: ABOUT 1 OF 5

In Princeton Admissions. Princeton University has offered admission to 2,296 young men and women as members of next fall's freshman class.

This is the largest number of students ever accepted by Princeton, according to Admission Director Timothy C. Callard. They were chosen from 10,304 applicants — also a record — and Callard expects 1,115 of them to accept the offer of admission and matriculate in September with the Class of 1980.

"We were pleased with the increase in both the size and quality of this year's applicant pool," Mr. Callard said. "This was especially encouraging at a time when the country was still feeling some effects of the recession. We worked especially hard this year to get the message out about Princeton's continuing commitment to meet 100 per cent of a student's need for financial aid."

The admission and financial aid decisions are made independently of each other — only after a student is admitted does the financial aid office determine his or her need for financial aid, which takes the form of scholarships, loans and work opportunities. While the cost of tuition, room and board for the next academic year will be $6,275, up 8.2 per cent from 1975-76, the budget for undergraduate financial aid will be increased as necessary to meet students' needs, according to Don Betterton, director of undergraduate financial aid.

The admitted secondary school students, 1,554 men and 742 women, were selected from 6,936 male and 3,368 female applicants. This is the third year that Princeton has followed an "equal access" or "sex blind" admission policy. In most areas, admission statistics closely parallel those of last year.

Over 93 per cent of the admitted group rank in the top 20 per cent of their classes. About 83 per cent are in the upper 10 per cent. College Entrance Examination Board scores were up in almost every category from last year: 662 verbal (from 659), 698 math (from 696), and "most significantly," according to Mr. Callard, achievement test scores were up 10 points to 690.

There was an increase in the number of admitted minority group students from last year (413 to 366) as well as in the number of applicants from which they were drawn (1,389 to 1,273). The number of alumni sons ad daughters admitted also increased, to 256 compared to 246 last year (587 alumni children sought admission this year, 512 last year).

"The number of engineering candidates continues to go up, by more than 13 per cent this year," said Mr. Callard, "and we're very encouraged by the increase in the size of the black applicant pool. We admitted more black applicants this year (226 out of 595 who applied) than ever before."

This year, 357 of those admitted indicated they planned to pursue a degree in engineering, compared to 340 last year.

The ratio of admitted students from public and private school backgrounds remained about the same as in past years — 61 per cent from public schools, 39 from private. About half the admitted group comes from the tri-state New York-New Jersey-Pennsylvania area (26, 13 and nine percent, respectively). Eight per cent of the 2,296 admitted are from Massachusetts, six per cent from California and five per cent from Connecticut.

PUMP STATION LOOTED

By Vandals. There were several break - ins in the Township last week, including one in a pumping station maintained by the Princeton Sewer Operating Committee.

Two metal doors of the station, located on Stony Brook Lane in the northwest corner of the Township, were forced open during the weekend by intruders who, once inside, opened all valves, rendering the station temporarily inoperable. Damage was estimated at approximately $100.

Taken from the station were a gas mask, two valves worth $36, a $30 fire extinguisher and a box of tools valued at $100. Pt. Anthony Gaylord investigated.

Another weekend entry took olace at Pete and Mike's Mobil Station, 171 Bayard Lane, where a glass pane in an overhead door was broken to gain entry.

Police report that a cash register and filing cabinets were opened but it appears that nothing was taken.

Trailer Entered. Also during the weekend, a business trailer owned by the Robbins Contracting Company of Union, parked on Bunn Drive in the Princeton Community Housing project, was broken into.

A window pane had been shattered but a foreman for the firm told police that nothing was missing.

Late one night last week, Michiko Stavert, 158 Mountain Avenue, heard noises and saw a light in another room in her house.

When the intruder left she called police. She discovered two flashlights missing and about $20 from her pocketbook. There were no signs of forced entry. Det. Samuel Bianco is continuing the investigation.

Intruder Caught. A young juvenile has been apprehended in connection with an entry in the home of Toms B. Royal, 82 Mansgrove Lane.

A pane of glass in a cellar window was broken and some items in the cellar were disturbed but nothing was taken, police said. The entry was reported Friday.

The juvenile is being processed by Det. Antyony Pinelli, the Township juvenile officer.

Someone was seen trying to enter the main house of the multi-million dollar estate of J. Seward Johnson, Route 206, Friday night through an unlocked door. However, the culprit was frightened off by a security guard.

A cassette player and FM radio valued at $100 was stolen last week from a car parked in front of the home of its owner, Robert W. Thomas, 284 Ewing Street.

SECURITY MAN CHARGED

With Shoplifting. A security officer at Bamberger's in the Princeton Shopping Center whose job it is to guard against shoplifters was himself last week charged with shoplifting.

Samuel S. Commare, 61, North Yardley, Pa., was observed by a fellow security officer, police said, in the parking lot outside the store. He had in his possession clothing articles valued at $126 which he had allegedly shoplifted from the store.

Mr. Commare was issued a complaint summons and released, pending his appearance in Township court. Ptl. John Clausen investigated.

RAPE ATTEMPT FAILS

On Alexander Street. A 20-year old Princeton University student managed to fight off an attempted rapist last week.

According to police, the victim was walking on Alexander Street between Faculty Road and the Rusty Scupper restaurant last Wednesday evening around 10:30 when a car stopped and a man accosted her.

Her attacker, police said, dragged her into a wooded area off the road where he attempted — unsuccessfully — to rape her. The victim, who suffered bruises and contusions in her attempt to defend herself, was later examined at McCosh Infirmary.

The suspect was described as black, 22-25, about 6-0, wearing a blue denim top and trousers. The original investigation by Ptl. Peter Savalli is being continued by the Township detective bureau.

Police Seek Boy Who Owns Air Rifle

Someone who owns a BB gun in the John Street area — police believe it is a teenager — is being sought by police so they can confiscate the weapon.

"It's only a matter of time," says Chief Michael Carnevale, "until this youngster hits someone in the eye." Chief Carnevale added that the BB shooter has caused "damage to homes of John Street residents over a long period of time."

The most recent incident took place Thursday morning when a building and grounds employee was shot in the right leg on Stanworth Drive and the windshield of his van was hit. The same morning, the suspect was again firing in the Stanworth area, which borders John Street.

"We would appreciate any information; certainly someone must know the youngster who owns a BB gun," said Chief Carnevale. He assured that callers would remain anonymous.

About five minutes later when Ptl. Vandermark was parked on Route 206 the same cyclist drove by. This time he didn't escape.

Choir College Seniors Will Hear Bob Hope at Commencement

Comedian Bob Hope will deliver the address for the 50th anniversary commencement of Westminster Choir College on May 31, it has been announced by President Ray E. Robinson.

"The Senior Class was most helpful in the selection," according to Mr. Robinson, and "they were concerned that we look beyond the music world for a speaker this year; they wanted someone with broad humanitarian interests. We're all very pleased with the choice."

In recent years, Betty Ford, Leonard Bernstein and Robert Shaw have accepted invitations to deliver the Commencement address at Westminster.

Bob Hope, now 73, made his show business debut in a dancing act in the Fatty Arbuckle Revue in the 1920's. Since that time he has had leading roles in more than 50 feature films and has been the recipient of literally hundreds of awards, including 31 honorary degrees. He is the author of seven books.

Since 1941, Mr. Hope has entertained millions of American service men and women in the U.S. and abroad. He is best known for his annual Christmas Show, which began in 1948.

The Westminster Commencement will take place in the Princeton University Chapel on Monday, May 31, at 10:30 a.m. The service will include a brass choir and a choral ensemble of 400 voices. Although the service is open to the public, there is traditionally a large number of parents and alumni on hand, and seating is limited.

Two Men Are Charged by Police with Assault, Using (1) a 10-Gallon Can (2) an Automobile

Assaults involving an empty ten - gallon can and a car as weapons ended last week in the arrest of two men in separate incidents.

Edward Rooks, 27, of the Brunswick Pike, an employee of the Princeton Theological Seminary, has been charged with assault and battery of a police officer, atrocious assault and resisting arrest. Released on $10,000 bail, he was scheduled to appear in Borough court this Wednesday.

Two members of the Mercer County . Sheriff's Office had attempted to serve warrants last week on Rooks in the Seminary's student center. According to police, Rooks swung an empty, but heavy ten - gallon can at one of the officers, who suffered a head cut and was knocked unconscious.

Rooks fled. Borough police took up the search and put out an alarm. He was later stopped by West Windsor police, detained at Route 1 and Alexander Road, and later returned to Borough Headquarters. Chief Michael Carnevale reported that there were three warrants for Rooks' arrest for failing to appear in court for sentencing for various charges stemming from incidents on January 30, March 26 and April 9.

When police received a call Thursday afternoon from a citizen that a car was driving erratically, Douglas Drummond, the Borough'smeter officer, followed the car into Griggs Service Station on Witherspoon and Hulfish streets.

There the driver allegedly ran his car into Officer Drummond who was not hurt but was aided by off - duty patrolman William Hunter. Police have charged Perry E. Anderson, 24, of Princeton Junction with assault with an auto and driving while under the influence of alcohol.

Disrupts Jazz Band. William Moffo, 50, 321 Ewing Street, was arrested Sunday in the Tap Room of the Nassau Inn where police report that he allegedly disrupted a jazz band that was performing.

He was evicted by Ptl. Joseph Wilhelm and charged with being intoxicated and creating a disturbance. The incident took place around 5:30.

Conway McGowan, 28, 246 John Street, was arrested Monday night and charged with trespassing on the Princeton University campus and assault and battery of Proctor Lloyd Best.

Ptl. David Alston and Ptl. William Fitch responded to a call from the proctor's office. According to police, McGowan was observed trespassing in the dorms after having been warned previously on numerous occasions and was also seen riding a bicycle that was not his.

In the ensuing arrest, McGowan allegedly pushed and shoved Proctor Best who signed a complaint against McGowan. McGowan, in turn, signed a counter complaint, claiming that Proctor Best struck him.

Last week, police also arrested William Blackburn, 48, and charged him with arguing and creating a disturbance at 42 Mercer Street.

Mr. Blackburn was taken the following day to the Mercer County detoxification center in Trenton. He is scheduled to appear in court May 5. Sgt. Thomas Procaccino, Ptl. Victor Fasanella and Ptl. Peter Hanely responded to the 8:38 p.m. call.

TOWN TOPICS is delivered without charge to every home in Princeton Borough and Township and to part or all of West Windsor, Lawrence, Hopewell, Montgomery, South Brunswick and Franklin Townships and Griggstown. At all newsstands, including TOWN TOPICS' office, it costs 20 cents.

6 CARS ARE TARGET

Of Vandals. Six cars parked in the YMCA lot were the target last week of vandals who, police said, caused extensive damage but took nothing of any real value.

The first report came at 10:55 in the evening from a Township resident who said his car had been ransacked. A left rear window had been shattered to get inside, police said, but nothing was taken.

Next a Cranbury resident notified police. Two sets of keys and a hunting knife had been taken from his car which had had one of its vent windows shattered. Next a Mercerville resident: rear window shattered, damage to glove compartment, car insurance identification to his 1972 Olds taken and about $2 in change.

Following in order were reports from a Township resident, glove compartment of his unlocked car rifled, nothing taken; side window smashed of a car owned by a Mercerville resident, nothing taken; and convertible top slashed; Jamesburg owner reported nothing taken.

Ptl. William Fitch investigated the malicious damage which apparently took place between 7:45 and 10:45.

HOUSE TOUR SATURDAY

In Millstone Valley. A house described by author J. A. R. Wylie, a former owner, as "bravely built....You went into it and you knew that good people had lived and loved and worked there and been happy" will be a highlight of the 1976 Mount Holyoke House Tour to take place Saturday from 12:30 to 5.

The house, Trevenna Farm in Montgomery Township, now home to Mr. and Mrs. John F. Hoff III, is set at the top of a small rise overlooking green lawns, tall trees, and a pond. The earliest portion of the house was built about 1732.

Historic Millstone Valley is the theme of the tour, proceeds from which provide scholarships to Mount Holyoke College for area girls. Also open for the day will be the 19th century clapboard farmhouse that once served as Princeton Hospital, was moved to its present location off Route 206 in 1952, and now is the home of Mr. and Mrs. George A. Vaughn. Guests may also tour the 1720 Bridgepoint home of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Ridolfi, restored and furnished with 18th century antiques.

Continuing along the scenic Millstone River, the next house is "Ye Brookie", owned by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Moevs, and then the East Millstone home of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford B. Ross, perhaps the oldest in Franklin Township and dating to the mid-1700's. In Millstone, guests may stop at the Old Millstone Forge, a blacksmith shop in continuous operation from 1693 to 1959. A blacksmith will be demonstrating for visitors during the hours of the tour. In Millstone tour - goers may also admire the 1828 Hillsborough Reformed Church, where refreshments in the colonial manner will be available. The Millstone Trio will be at the church from 2 to 4:30 playing 18th century American and European chamber music on flute, bassoon and harpsichord.

Tickets at $5 for the tour which will take place from 12:30 to 5 are available at Hinkson's, the University Store, and Marsh's in the Montgomery Shopping Center. They may be purchased the day of the tour at any of the houses and at the Princeton Battle Monument.

Planning the tour for the Mount Holyoke Club of Princeton - Trenton are: Mrs. Donald P. Shaffer, chairman; Mrs. Harry R. Hill, Jr., Mrs. Thomas Petrone, Mrs. Henry R. Martin, Mrs. Nicholas Van Dyck, Mrs. Donald C. Morton, Mrs. Robert A. Winters, Mrs. Michael S. Mahoney, Miss Kay Gerhart and Mrs. Charles DiDomenico. Mrs. Robert D. Reed is club president.

Influence of Witherspoon and Madison at Princeton Affected Writings of Philip Freneau, Called 'Poet of the Revolution'

Restlessness, romanticism, rebelliousness – those were the 3 R's kindled in Philip Morin Freneau's brain during his education in colonial New Jersey. All of the sparks exploded into fire after 1770 at Princeton's College of New Jersey, where Freneau became fully committed to both poetry and revolution.

Born in 1752 in Monmouth County of well-to-do French Huguenot parents, Freneau attended boarding schools or was educated by private tutors. He entered the Princeton college in 1768 and fell under the spell of the Rev. John Witherspoon, the college president who later became a signer of the Declaration of Independence. (Related story, page 1B)

Witherspoon encouraged independent thought, and Freneau's mood of rebellion was further heightened by his roommate, a free-thinking Virginian named James Madison, who in time was elected to be President of the United States.

Freneau's poetic talents flourished in college although his verses received scant attention before his graduation in 1771. But by 1775, Freneau was receiving credit enough; his bitterly satirical anti-British poetry was making him a revolutionist of distinction.

In time the young poet earned the sobriquet, "Poet of the Revolution." It has been said that Freneau's sincere, daring poems helped lay the groundwork for the Declaration of Independence.

Loved the Sea. Restlessness came frequently to the fore. Freneau signed aboard a ship headed for Santa Cruz in the winter of 1775 on the first of many sea voyages. He wrote often of the sea. One biographer says that "no other American poet has known the sea so well or pictured it more graphically."

Returning home in 1778, Freneau again used his pen on the side of Revolution. He enlisted as well in the First Regiment of the Monmouth Militia, advancing from private to sergeant by the spring of 1780. Freneau lashed out at the British between 1778 and 1780 in a prolific series of poetic satires, such as "George the Third's Soliloquy" and other vitriolic thrusts at British royalty.

Lured to the sea again in May, 1780, Freneau was taken prisoner by a British frigate and cast into the hold of the British prison ship "Scorpion." Released after more than six weeks of brutal treatment, Freneau walked home from Elizabeth to Freehold.

He reached it by roundabout paths, fearing that his "ghastly looks" would terrify neighbors. His vivid poem, The British Prison Ship, detailed the captives' misery and cursed the "foes to the rights of freedom and of men."

Cornwallis a Target. He continued to write furiously, aiming his acidulous poetry at British military leadership, from Lord Cornwallis to Sir Henry Clinton. Generations of critics have hailed Freneau's writings in the cause of American freedom.

Many have also lauded his other poems, particularly those dealing with the sea and with nature. He has been called "the most significant poetic figure in America before William Cullen Bryant."

After the war, Freneau became avidly anti-Federalist; his writings for Jeffersonian journals were so pointed that George Washington referred to him as "that rascal, Freneau." Jefferson, for his part, said that Freneau had saved the nation when it was "galloping into monarchy."

The poet married beautiful Eleanor Forman in 1790. He dabbled in newspaper publishing and printing, always failing financially.

Hardship did not stop Freneau's direct approach to living. On December 18, 1832, when 80 years old, he ignored friends' advice. He left a Freehold house and set out for home despite a raging blizzard. He lost his way, stumbled into a hole and froze to death.

Freneau was buried on a Monmouth County knoll under a big sycamore tree, in exactly the romantic kind of spot that he would have chosen. He rests there yet, his restlessness ended, his revolutionary zeal but a memory.

TWIN W UNIT BUSY

130 Calls Answered. John Henderson, first lieutenant of the Twin W First Aid Squad of West Windsor, has listed the Squad's statistics for the first quarter of 1976.

During January, February and March the Squad responded to 130 ambulance calls, 38 more than during the same period in 1975. Of the calls answered, 89 were emergencies, 19 were requests for transportation and 22 for other reasons such as standby services at athletic events and first aid demonstrations.

The three ambulances of the Twin W covered 2,676 miles and were on the road 443 hours. Patients were transported to 12 different hospitals, including five in Philadelphia and one in New Brunswick.

The Twin W is a volunteer non-profit organization whose sole purpose is to provide first aid services to its community.

Schools Given New Telephone Numbers

Princeton's four elementary schools will have new telephone numbers starting next Monday morning, and parents are urged to make note of them. It will no longer be possible to reach these schools through the main switchboard number.

The new telephone numbers are:

Community Park	924-0566
Johnson Park	924-2579
Littlebrook	924-3475
Riverside	924-4043

The new system is the start of a money-saving changeover in telephones.

STRICKEN MAN AIDED

By Good Samaritans. A 61-year old Princeton resident may have been saved by the combined efforts of police, the First Aid squad and a truck driver, when he suffered an apparent heart attack.

Pfl. William Hunter and Pfl. Victor Fasanella and the First Aid Squad responded to several calls just before 8 Monday morning that a man was lying down at the intersection of Nassau and Witherspoon streets.

Police applied chest massage but before they could arrive, a truck driver from Manville, Thomas Franzoso, had stopped, police said, and was also applying cardiac massage. The victim was rushed to Princeton Medical Center.

Apparently their efforts were successful. Chief Michael Carnevale said Tuesday that the victim was sitting up in bed. He was identified by police as William Loman of 56 Leigh Avenue.

WORDS AND MUSIC

At ACLU Benefit. ...and a home-cooked dinner with wine. The annual "Mayfest" fund-raising event of the Mercer-Hunterdon County chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union will be held Saturday, May 8, at the Unitarian Church.

The cash bar will open at 7 and dinner and wine will be served at 8. Tickets are $25 per couple, $10 for singles. Reservations are necessary and may be made by mail through Estelle Kuhn, 74 Woodland Drive, Princeton, or by calling 921-7250.

Steven Nagler, executive director of the New Jersey Civil Liberties Union, will speak, and Princeton folksinger Caroline Moseley will play her guitar and sing.

Since last year's "Mayfest," the Mercer-Hunterdon ACLU chapter has challenged New Jersey's hitchhiking ban, negotiated what the chapter calls "democratization" of tennis court assignments at the Mercer County indoor tennis center, and defended a Trenton police officer.

In the hitchhiking case, attorney Marian Copeland is arguing for Princeton resident Philip Trotwood who was ticketed twice for hitchhiking to his gardener's job in Princeton Junction. She argues that the state ban violates a constitutionally-protected right to travel. The Trenton police officer had been suspended from the Trenton local of the Patrolmen's Benevolent Association because he criticized a stand taken by the local's president.

The chapter's office at 142 N. Clinton Avenue, Trenton, also refers clients to appropriate legal services and has sponsored talks on Senate Bill 1.

"MAYFEST" SINGER: Caroline Moseley will entertain guests at the annual fund-raising dinner of the Mercer-Hunterdon County chapter of the American Civil Liberties Union. The date is May 8; the place, the Unitarian Church.

Lost: One Hour

For the first time since the emergency Daylight Saving Proclamation was made in January, 1974, clocks are scheduled to be moved ahead on the traditional date -- the last Sunday in April.

When the Arab nations capped the oil wells late in 1973, President Nixon invoked an extra hour of daylight by ordering timepieces to be set ahead on the first Sunday in January of the following year. Twelve months later, there was a sufficient public protest (largely over the danger of sending children to school in predawn darkness) so that Daylight Time did not begin until the last Sunday in February.

Congress failed to act on repetition of that schedule, so the proper time for the change has now reverted to April 25, at 2 a.m. DST will be with us until the last Sunday in October, which turns out to be Halloween.

VOLUNTEERS, ALL: A perede down Nassau Saturday, Mey 1S and e reception et Morven will mark Volunteer Week in Princeeton (Mey 15-22). Williem Kerch, who, as Fire Chief, is probably Princaton's Number One Voluntear, is at the lett, holding a Volunteer poster with Borough Councilman Martin P. Lomberdo, organizer of the event. Next to Chief Kerch are Suzy Wycoff, a mamber of the Princeton Rescue Squad Auxiliary; Pat Kidd, Princeton Jeycaes rapresentative and on the other side of Mr. Lombardo, Susan Cowen, president of John Witherspoon's Ceras House Council, and Ken Reid of the Princeton High Student Council. The Morven receptlon will be from 3-5, and there's a rumor the Governor will pour the punch.

PARADE PLANNED

Dnwn Princeton Plke. The second annual "Look Up America" parade, one of Lawrence Township's many Bicentennial activities will be held on Sunday, October 17, George M. Gottuso, Municipal Manager and General Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements, has announced.

This year the Parade route will be on the historic Princeton Pike, also known as "The street of Schools" for the five schools along its way. Also on Princeton Pike, which dates back to the early 1800's is the building at the corner of Smithfield Avenue which once housed one of Lawrence's earliest grade schools, the Valley School, built in 1832 and later known as the Brick School.

Mr. Gottuso also announced that a meeting has been called for Thursday, April 29 at 8 in the Lawrence Municipal Building of all civic, religious, fraternal and veteran organizations interested in participating in the parade.

RCA Engineer Sees Mail Delivery by Satellite

In the 1980s, domestic communications satellites will relay television programs directly to the home and may even be used to deliver mail, an RCA engineer has predicted.

Speaking before the Communication Satellite System Conference in Montreal this week, Dr. John E. Keigler, 50 Randall Road, said the development of domestic communication satellite service in North America can be expected to reach maturity by the end of this decade. Dr. Keigler is Manager of Communication Satellite Systems Engineering for the RCA Astro-Electronics Division near Princeton.

After a slow start, domestic communications satellite service has picked up momentum and is growing both in channel capacity and customers, Dr. Keigler noted. Looking to the 1980s, industry planning must take into account both technological and economic aspects of such satellite service for a broad spectrum of users, he added.

During the 1980s, communications satellites can be expected to carry a multiplicity of types of traffic and to employ a number of types of earth stations. Private line message and network TV distribution services will be expanded and new services will be added for smaller users.

"Such multi-purpose, diversified systems will spread the costs and facilitate service to small users," Dr. Keigler said. "Thin route and single channel per carrier will dominate in the northern regions of Alaska and Canada and perhaps even in regions of Mexico. In the United States, demand for low-cost, two-way TV for education and medicine recently has led to the formation of the Public Service Satellite Consortium."

Further, he said, there will be expanded service for direct user-to-user transfer of data, with earth terminals installed on the customer premises. He indicated that recently-introduced satellite technology is helping to conserve space in the radio frequency spectrum. As one example, the RCA Satcom design uses a dual polarization technique to provide 24 transponder channels in the spectrum space required for the 12-channel capacity of earlier communications satellites.

"Further work in this area could reduce costs radically, so that more channels for telephone, TV and data could be provided economically at major earth stations," Dr. Keigler said.

IT'S NEW To Us

SUITS FOR ALL FIGURES

At Edith's. 90 degrees and still climbing read a sheltered thermometer this past weekend. Easter 1976's record-breaking heat is sure to be long remembered, for this year instead of admiring Spring coats and daffodil blooms, people were frantically putting in screens and digging in trunks for lightweight summer clothing.

Generally anyone buying a bathing suit in mid-April would be considered organized. However, this season it may prove to be a measure of self-defense and if so, do look at Edith's for a collection that accommodates all figures.

AN EXTRA AT EDITH'S: Hostess gowns are but one of several unexpected extras found at Edith's Lingerie. This one with its kimono sleeves and oriental feeling has been designed by Olga in a hot rose-red floral print and then trimmed with a white stretch fabric to give an excellent fit.

The two-piece suits all come with separate tops and bottoms so you can be sure of a proper fit. One style by Vassarette has bikini pants and a halter top in three designs – green with white dots, blue with white markings and a solid navy. It costs $24 for both pieces, and then for lounging around there are matching long pants and a full halter top with a soft built-in bra, $25 and $20 respectively.

Another two-piece style with a fuller top and pants with an attached skirt has been designed by Accentuate in several vibrant floral prints. With these is an incredible choice of matching cover-ups including a t-shirt, long-sleeved blouse, full-length t-shirt dress or sheer hooded caftan, priced from $19 to $49 and from $13 to $16 for the bathing suit separates.

One-Piece Suits. Then in the one-piece department we saw an extremely flattering navy suit with a white floral print. It has a wrapped front, inside support and an extra piece for the v-neckline if you prefer a slightly higher line. There also a matching short kimono, $30 and $42 for the suit.

We also liked the two that can double as playsuits. One is particularly feminine with a high gathered neckline, dropped waist, low back and full skirt, while the other has a long torso separate pants and a tie for the waist, $38 each.

After your swim, one of the nicest parts is drying off and warming up once again in a long terry robe, such as a heavy wrapped white one with kimono sleeves and an attached obi belt. Other choices are another white one with interesting multi-colored stripes, a green and white horizontally striped jumpsuit, or an off-white terry velour zip-front dress appliqued with gingham flowers, $25 to $40.

Edith's also carries a lovely group of hostess gowns that certainly need not be confined to the house. The predominate look here is caftans, which are comfortable as well as flattering. The prettiest one of all is in a floating chiffon of a pale blue, lime and white watercolor print. With it is a long sheer shawl-type scarf that can also be wrapped around your neck and worn as a cowl neckline.

There are solids, too such as a slightly fitted caftan with a v-neckline and gathers under the bust in a royal or orange banlon; or a soft soft green one that flares out from bodice tucks and ends with a lettuce edging around the hem, $55 to $160 for these and others.

Despite the bathing suits and hostess gowns, this is Edith's Lingerie and owner, Edith Zuckerman, has the right foundation for all the new and old styles. Topping the list is Bali's new t-shirt bra that is perfectly smooth, even to closing in the front, $8 in white.

Then there is a new strapless stretch bra by Lily of France that like the one above doesn't have a wrinkle to it. It is also quite sheer and comes in white or nude, $8. And for the tennis player there is a new "Do anything, go anywhere" bra, fully lined with comfortable cotton, $7.

The new longer skirts need Olga's gored fashion-length full slip trimmed with her trademark, that comfortable stretch lace – in white or nude, $13. You'll also find here half-slips that are flared and below the knee.

Some unusual items include a strapless floor-length slip with its own stretch bra; another with a seamless stretch halter top; and seamless stretch body suits that feel like a second skin, all approximately $18.

If you find pretty underwear irresistable, this is a store that is sure to tempt you. In the lightest possible Qiana Edith has a half-slip and matching teddy pants in a lovely peach trimmed with ecru lace; or in a white dacron and cotton there is a flared half-slip and comisole top (wear it as a blouse on the hottest days) with a front panel of cotton eyelet backed in pale blue and trimmed with eyelet edging. But if you prefer prints, Vera has a new set with blue dots and butterflies on a white background, approximately $8 to $16 for the above.

New In Nightgowns. The nightgowns this season are also tempting and quite different. For instance there is one in blue or ecru with lace-trimmed hankerchief-type sleeves, and another in green or black that is tyled like a toga with small ties and lace trim straight down both sides from the shoulders to the hemline, $35 and $38.

However, prettiest of all is a dacron and cotton gowns that will help keep you cool in the months ahead. One with an elastic scooped neckline and cotton eyelet cap cleeves comes in pink, blue or yellow and can be tied with a matching ribbon, $14.

Then in a long or baby doll version, we liked a backless gown with a young look to it. Available in blue or white, it has contrast peasant embroidery on the bra-styled bodice, $16 for each.

Light-weight travel sets are here too, as well as the popular Pucci gowns and robes in the newest leaf pattern which comes in tones of blue or pink. As always there is a matching bra and bikini, and this year the hostess group includes a caftan and long-sleeved v-necked jumpsuit.

Edith's Lingerie at 10 Chambers Street is open Monday through Saturday from 9:30 to 5:30.

Protests "Cuckoo's" Return.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

"Cuckoo's Nest" is back and the Garden's got it! We can do something about it. We are doing something about it.

Write or call the Mayor's office at Borough or Township Halltoday and say, "We Protest!" The councils need our combined support in approaching Sameric and the University.

NOTICE

Letters to TOWN TOPICS "Mailbox" should be typed, double-spaced, signed and received for publication no later than Monday. No letter will be printed without a valid signature and address. Letters longer than 500 words may be edited or omitted entirely, at the discretion of the editor. Letters on subjects not specifically related to the Princeton area may also be rejected.

A Chapter in a Boy's Life.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

One of the greatest pleasures of motherhood, for me, is to recognize those rare and happy experiences of childhood which are a turning point in a child's life and to try and build positively on them.

The concert given by the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra to the elementary school children of Princeton was just such an experience for my younger son. He came home exuberant, full of the delights of a live orchestra playing for him and his friends. A whole new world has opened up for him - his ambition now is to join the New Jersey Symphony and to play with them.

What a marvellous rapport the orchestra must have developed with the children and what skilful and perceptive programming! I should like to thank all those whose hard work and whose generous funding brought such joy and enthusiasm into a small boy's life - and such envy to his older siblings.

An Apology for Noisy Calves.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

We apologize sincerely and humbly for inadvertently buying and bringing into our neighborhood two unweaned Angus steer calves Saturday, April 10. We were assured that both were beyond this period. One was as well behaved as our three Herefords; the other was a trial for us all.

If he does not give up his noisy behaviour we will get rid of him, but (fingers crossed) he seems almost over his trouble this morning (12 April). We will keep him in the middle of our farm anyway for several more days.

On the good side, the emergency forced us to learn about electric fences in a hurry. We will, deo volente, install the promised barrier 50' inside our western line this week.

Sorry. We don't yet know about all these things, but did specifically ask about this possibility and received an incorrect answer.

Parking Privileges Sought.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

There is a problem, a big problem for the Hospital Volunteers with parking. The personnel lot is always full and one has to drive around the hospital waiting for someone to leave to get a space. This becomes most annoying and a waste of time and gas and we arrive for work in such a state of exhaustion that sometimes we have to go to Emergency for resuscitation to be revived before we can get on with our duties.

I believe we should have the privilege of parking on the street without the worry of being ticketed by our most efficient Police Force for overtime parking as long as we have a Volunteer Sticker on our cars – after all, we also take care of any of the Policemen who happen to be hospitalized and treat him with the same respect, kindness and cheerfulness even though the day before said officer might have given us a citation for some minor misdemeanor.

Naming Names.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

So many people have been, and are, involved with Chambers Walk that it could have been named:

Audrey's (Short) Alley
Bellows, or Bernard, Boulevard
Cawley Concourse
(or Robert's Ramble)
Kemmerer Causeway
Doctor's Drag
Esplinade Olexa
Meyers Mews
Princeton's Promenade
Sander's Saunter

or even P.S. 'Iway

To all contributors, the community extends its thanks. Some day it may reach Moore Street.

WILLIAM H. WALKER II
18 Nassau Street

Editor's Note: The author's imagination in suggesting alternative names for the proposed pedestrian path from Chambers to Moore Street was triggered in last week's issue by TOWN TOPICS' report that it might well be named "Walker's Walk," for the Princeton architect who originated the concept at the beginning of the decade.

Walk Proved Popular.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Our appreciation for your assistance in publicizing the Jugtown tour, sponsored by the Historical Society of Princeton.

Some 250 people joined us, and the tour was a great success. Our thanks.

TIGER AUTO WINS

On Bike Shop. More space — by 901 square feet — more bikes to sell. A unanimous Appellate Court has overturned the ruling of Superior Court and informed Tiger Auto that it can enlarge its bike shop, Jay's Cycles, at 249 Nassau.

After the Borough Zoning Board gave Tiger a variance last May, real estate agent Karl Light, a very close neighbor at 247 Nassau, filed suit. Superior Court saw things Mr. Light's way, but Jay Miranoff kept pedalling away and, with the Zoning Board, appealed the Superior Court decision and last week, won his case.

Jay's Cycles has 1,338 square feet. The building was originally a Sinclair service station, then a BP station. It stands on a lot so shallow that the front yard depth, under Borough zoning regulations, overlaps the required back yard depth. The addition will be built on the side, and the building will not be any farther front than it now is.

William P. Orrick

LIGHT ADDS TO STAFF

Former Headmaster Named. William P. Orrick, headmaster of Solebury School from 1949 to 1968, has joined the staff of K. M. Light Real Estate, 247 Nassau Street. In addition to his many activities in the educational and community fields, Mr. Orrick has been associated with the American Field Service since 1968.

He has served the AFS International Scholarships Program in various capacities from associate director of programs to his present position of vice-president. While a resident of Bucks County, he was chairman of Solebury Township Zoning Commission.

At present Mr. Orrick is also a representative to the Economic and Social Council of the United Nations. He has lived in the Princeton area for seven years, residing with his wife, Kathryn, and four children on Cherry Valley Road in Hopewell Township.

EARNINGS UP

At Metromation. Metromation, Inc., of 1100 State Road, has reported a net income of $267,953, or 45 cents per share, on sales of $2,640,018 for its fiscal year ending November 30. This compares to earnings of $46,083, or 12 cents a share, on sales of $1,384,010 for fiscal 1974.

Income from continuing operations, before extraordinary items, for 1975 was $114,015, or 19 cents per share, versus $84,855, or 21 cents a share for 1974. The company reported an increase of shares during the period from 389,716 to 557,412.

Ralph Barth, President of the producer of computer control systems, said that the company's backlog of orders is higher now than it was at this time last year. "The demand in the chemical and petroleum industries for computerized control to reduce energy costs and increase throughput continues to be strong," he said.

"The competitive pressures for cost effective satellite telecommunications systems in the 1980s can be expected to result in the selection of systems whose cost per channel is lowest."

AGENCY OPENS

Branch in Pennington. A Delaware Valley United Way agency, the Family Service Association, has opened a Hopewell Valley branch office at 62 South Main Street, Pennington. The branch will serve Hopewell Borough and Township as well as Pennington.

The purpose of the Agency is to use positive family resources and to strengthen family life through marriage and family counseling. Working for adequate social service opportunities in the community is also part of the program.

Family Service Association is a non-profit, non-sectarian social agency established in 1938. It is financed by the United Fund and individual fees from clients who are able to pay according to a sliding fee scale. No fees are charged to welfare, unemployment compensation and social security clientele.

Community groups which have worked towards the establishment of the new service include the police of Pennington and Hopewell Borough and Township, the Hopewell Valley Regional Schools and PTAs, churches, womens' clubs, service clubs and a number of local physicians.

The branch will be open from 9 to 4 and may be reached by calling 737-2048. Evening hours will be scheduled, if necessary.

NJAIS MEETING FRIDAY

At Peddie School. The bicentennial meeting of the New Jersey Association of Independent Schools will be held at the Peddie School in Hightstown, on Friday. Dr. Bruce McClellan, Headmaster of the Lawrenceville School and President of NJAIS, will give the keynote message at this all-day meeting.

Dr. McClellan has been nominated for another one-year term as president. Also nominated for Board membership are Mrs. Alexander Robinson of Chapin School as an elementary school faculty member and Jan Baker of Princeton Day School as member of the Women's Athletic Group.

Members from 42 New Jersey independent schools will have an opportunity to attend morning and afternoon workshops and lectures. Princeton residents who will lead workshops include Dr. Frank Sparrow "First Aid for Athletic Injuries"; Sanford Roeser, program director for Educational Testing Service, "Interpretation of Annual Testing Programs"; and Walker W. Stevenson, Jr., Senior Vice-President of Hornblower & Weeks-Hempill Noyes, "The Role of Trustee in the Financial Administration of the School."

Participating in the day's activities from Chapin School will be Mrs. Harrison Young, headmistress; Mrs. Gaylord Kanavel, assistant headmistress, Mrs. Alexander Robinson, NJAIS Representative; Mrs. Marianne Vaughan, business manager; Mrs. Ida Edelman, reading specialist; Mrs. Kenneth Pietsch, school nurse; and the three Department Heads -- Mrs. James Coe, lower school; Mrs. Gordon Robertson, middle school, and Mrs. Robert Sussna, upper school.

News Of The CHURCHES

DYING IS TOPIC

Of Two Talks Sunday. In the wake of the New Jersey Supreme Court ruling in the Quinlan case, two discussions on "The Right To Die" and the Prolongation of Life have been planned this Sunday.

The Reverend Donald Z. Harrington, minister of the Community Church in New York City, will speak at the 20th annual meeting of the Princeton Memorial Association Sunday at 8:15 at the Unitarian Church. Nassau Presbyterian Church has scheduled a new adult class on the subject Sunday mornings at 9:30 in the conference room, to which Dr. Dorothy Hill Larson, a gerontologist with the Presbyterian Homes of New Jersey, will speak this Sunday on "The Realities of Facing Up to Death in our Modern Society."

Since coming to New York in 1942, Dr. Harrington has also been active as chairman of the New York state Liberal Party, leader of the United World Federalists, a strong advocate of equal rights for minorities and a member of the board of the Euthanasia Educational Fund. He gives sermon broadcasts at 11 a.m. every other Sunday over Station WQXR.

The Princeton Memorial Association is a non-profit association of volunteers that seeks to offer its members the information and encouragement they need to plan for death. From a handful of members who decided to organize at a church picnic 20 years ago, it has grown to a membership of more than 1350 residents of Mercer County.

It is the oldest of New Jersey's nine funeral societies and has been instrumental in the formation of two new societies in Toms River and Cape May this year. Prior to Dr. Harrington's address, Dr. Henry Powsner will preside at a short business meeting.

At Nassau Church, recognizing that the issues are multiple and complex, the adult course will examine them from their psychological, medical, legal and theological standpoints. Discussions will be led by specialists in each field. Dr. Larson will discuss from first hand experience what the realities and agonies of the last and sometimes interminable moments of death can be.

UP AND AWAY: Balloon rises over the Unitarian Church as preparations take place for Saturday's Auction, Etc. Balloon ride is one of many unusual donations to be auctioned off.

AUCTION SATURDAY

At Unitarian Church. The annual Auction, Etc. will take place on Saturday from 10 until 4, rain or shine, at the Unitarian Church, Cherry Hill Road just off Route 206. In addition to the all-day auction, there will be many specialty booths, tables and games.

Many new items have been donated by merchants, such as TV's, radios, and stereos in working order, as well as good used furniture, china and glassware, and items of nostalgia. Everything from hotdogs to several varieties of quiche and other treats will be served for lunch. Adult-supervised child care will enable the entire family to attend.

The Silent Service Auction will have many unique and valuable items and services in addition to a balloon ride over Princeton. The Art Gallery will display stoneware pottery by Albert Green and others. Ann Mitchell, Lonnie Sue Johnson, Mae Rockland and other artists will show and sell their paintings and graphics.

A flea market will rival Englishtown prices with an enormous selection of useful items priced well below their real value. For the kids there will be several shows and a spookhouse inside as well as games on the Midway outside for fun and prizes.

On the Clothes Horse downstairs will be nearly-new, all-season clothing at very reasonable prices. There will also be a plant table with vegetable and herb seedlings; hanging baskets; indoor and outdoor plants; a toy booth; a gigantic array of old and new books and records; stationery; handicrafts; a gourmet foods table – and to make things complete, a rock table.

BULLETINS

The Hopewell Presbyterian Church, corner of Broad and Louellen Streets, Hopewell, will hold a Rummage Sale Thursday, April 29, from 9:30 to 8. On Friday, April 30, from 10 until noon, there will be a Grab Bag for $1. There is a Nearly New Section of better clothing, and many other good items will be for sale.

A portion of the proceeds will go to the newly established Rev. John H. Ginter Memorial Scholarship.

Trinity Episcopal Church, Rocky Hill, will hold its Annual Smorgasbord Supper Saturday, May 1, with sittings at 4:30, 5:45 and 7. Tickets must be purchased in advance.

Take-out-platters will be available at 5:15, 6:30 and 7:45 for those busy with the Rocky Hill Bicentennial Day. For adults, they will cost $4.25, children under 12, $2. Telephone 924-1955 or 359-8482.

Christ Congregation, Walnut Lane and Houghton Road, will hold a Playday Saturday at the Green Grove picnic area in Washington's Crossing State Park beginning with a picnic lunch at 12:30.

Afternoon activites may include volleyball, frisbee tossing, hiking, softball, fishing, singing or basking in the sun. Kite flying and water balloon tossing are possibilities also. Glen E. Rainsley is co-ordinator of the event, which is open to all.

The Women's Guild of Hartingen Reformed Church, Route 206, Belle Mead, will hold its annual rummage sale at the Church House Friday from 9 to 7 and Saturday from 9 to noon. On Saturday from noon to 2 all one can stuff into a paper bag is available for $1, and from 2 to 3 is Children's Penny Sale.

Rummage contributions will be received Thursday from 9 until 3 or in the evening until 9 at the Church House. Call Mrs. Frank Rocknak, 359-5295, or the church office, 359-3556, for information on pick-up.

The Friendly Visitors of St. Paul's Church held an Easter Parade on Palm Sunday for the elderly at the Princeton Nursing Home, Witherspoon and Quarry Streets. Boys and girls from John Witherspoon School and members of the C.C.D. catechism classes at St. Paul's visited the home, distributing palms, singing hymns and playing the guitar as entertainment for the residents.

The Women's Guild of the First Baptist Church, John Street and Avalon Place, will hold The Twelve Apostles Tea Sunday, May 2, from 4-6. All are invited. A donation of $1 is asked.

Firestone Wants You To Know About Real Estate

Preparing Your Home for Sale -- Outside

Some people spend more than they should when preparing their homes for sale. Here are some important money-saving tips to consider when you get ready to market your home in the Princeton area.

The external appearance has the biggest impact on the potential buyer. If you can't get him inside to look, you won't be able to sell him the house. A fresh coat of paint is the biggest and least expensive consideration. Even painting the exterior trim or entranceway will be significant. For a small job, call the student employment agency at 452-3335, and hire a student to do it for $3 per hour.

Getting rid of external clutter is another very important factor in preparing your house for sale. Your student will be glad to help there also. In Princeton you're fortunate: Clean-up Week starts April 26 in the township. (April 26, (districts 1 & 4) April 25, districts 5, 6, & 10; April 28, districts 3, 9, & 12; April 29, 2 & 11; April 30, 7, 8, & 13.) Throw away or give away anything you're not going to take with you. Anything you feel is still of use can be donated to the Hospital Fete. See our list next week of people to call for different types of donations.

One more thing to do - buy a few bales of peat moss and edge under your hedge or around your flower beds. Peat moss is inexpensive and makes a regular back yard look like a formal garden. Even consider one bag of greening agents like turf builder for the grass to give it body this spring.

Put yourself in the buyer's shoes. The house-hunters are looking for charm, comfort, location, and a fair price. Get them to come inside your home by giving them a good first impression outside.

PART—TIME ADMINISTRATIVE ASST. AVAILABLE

If you had a first class administrative assistant like I do, you'd be a happy person. She was the cream of a crop of 150 candidates I was able to choose from recently. Luckily for you, she is available, as I am closing my Princeton consulting office. A more competent organizer you'll never find. Great grasp of a wide range of projects. Intelligent questioner of procedures and tactics, relentless tracker of follow-ups. Very refined in dress, appearance, manner; college educated, the works. She has been working about 25 hours a week and wants to keep to that. Needs a bit of flexibility to accommodate occasional family responsibilities, but will work 'round the clock when needed. My loss is your gain, if you have the right situation for her. Please reply with all particulars to Box E-71, Town Topics.

Princetonian's Timely Biography Sheds Light On Many Contributions of John Witherspoon

The town has named one of its main thoroughfares and a school for him; the University has given his name to a dormitory. And yet few in Princeton, or indeed in the nation, know who John Witherspoon was and what he did.

Martha Lou Stohlman of 11 Edgehill Street was asked two years ago by Princeton Seminary to rectify this situation by writing a compact and readable account of this prominent Presbyterian minister, the first president of the College of New Jersey to serve for any length of time (23 years), an early advocate of American Revolution, a member of the Continental Congress and a signer of the Declaration of Independence. On Thursday Mrs. Stohlman will be honored by the Seminary at a reception in the Campus Center from 2 to 4.

WITHERSPOON AND BIOGRAPHER: Mrs. Martha Lou Stohlman is the author of the recently published "John Witherspoon: Person, Politician, Patriot." The portrait of Witherspoon, who was president of Princeton University from 1768 until three years before his death in 1794, is by Charles Willson Peale and hangs in Nassau Hall.

John Witherspoon was a 43-year old clergyman in Scotland with an international reputation as a scholar and writer when he was called in 1766 to be president of the College of New Jersey, founded primarily, although not exclusively, to educate clergymen. However, Mrs. Witherspoon, appalled at the idea of leaving hearth and home to cross the Atlantic, took to her bed in protest and it was another 18 months after personal urgings from Richard Stockton and Benjamin Rush before the family departed for America.

Witherspoon became an effective fund-raiser for his college, riding horseback to as far as Boston and Williamsburg to speak his cause. He collected books for the library and procured some of the first scientific equipment. He lectured in chronology and history, taught composition and criticism, and gave lessons in French to those who wanted them. He strengthened the preparatory school and also directed the reading of the first graduate students.

At that time the College consisted of Nassau Hall and the president's residence, now MacLean House. Next door was the Presbyterian Church which had been built four years earlier and which was used by the college for convocations and commencements. The president was expected to assume preaching and pastoral duties, and it was from this pulpit that Witherspoon delivered on May 17, 1776, a stirring sermon espousing the cause of the Revolution.

Thunder in Philadelphia. John Witherspoon was chairman of the county's Committee of Correspondence in 1775. The next year he moved to the Provincial Congress of New Jersey in which he served only 11 days before being promoted to the Third Continental Congress in Philadelphia. The New Jersey delegation, Richard Stockton, Francis Hopkinson and John Witherspoon, arrived in Philadelphia in the middle of a crashing thunderstorm just as John Adams was finishing his argument for independence. Witherspoon is the only clergyman and the only college president to have signed the Declaration.

When the war came to Princeton, he closed the college at the last moment, and seven months later, although Nassau Hall had been pillaged and was unusable, he had students back at work. When the war was over he continued as president, preacher and politician. He was again a member of the state legislature and was prominent in the formation of the Presbyterian Church as a national entity. He presided over the first meeting of the General Assembly until a moderator was elected.

Witherspoon wrote essays on subjects as diverse as marriage, the proper upbringing of children, economics, eloquence and language.

Blind during the last years of his life, he died in 1794 and is buried in "Presidents' Row" in Princeton Cemetery. The Latin inscription on his grave

A Psychologist Writes a Biography

When she was asked by the Seminary to write a popular biography of John Witherspoon, Mrs. Stohlman had previously only written articles on air pollution as a member of the Environmental Commission, profiles of church members for the Nassau Church newsletter where she is an elder and past director of Christian education, and a history of Sweet Briar College from which she graduated Phi Beta Kappa in 1934. However, her interest was high and she was able to use two existing biographies and a number of articles on Witherspoon.

Wife of the late W. Frederick Stohlman, an art historian who was for many years a professor at Princeton, she received M.A. and Ph.D. degrees in psychology from Cornell and had herself taught for a number of years. The two Stohlman daughters, Julie and Suzanne, are in Seattle, Wash. and Kennebunkport, Maine, both teaching at the pre-school and elementary level.

"MUGS MONEY"

Triangle Infiltrated! They're saying, around McCarter, that mobsters have infiltrated Triangle Club, but it's only the publicity staff pushing "Mugs Money," the 87th annual Triangle Club musical scheduled to open next Thursday, April 29, and to play that Friday, Saturday and Sunday. "Mugs" will return for Reunion weekend June 4 and 5.

Rights to the production, a former Triangle member has confessed, have been sold to the underworld in return for a "bushel of Zucchini and a truckload of see-through Pakistani tee-shirts."

Milton Lyon, who has survived 17 of the last 20 Triangle shows, will once again direct. Bick Goss is the choreographer. The precise role of the Bicentennial has not been determined.

FOUR, FROM GRAHAM

When Dance Company Appears. Two of Martha Graham's favorite creations will be on the program when the Martha Graham Dance Company appears in McCarter Theatre. The troupe will give a single performance on Monday, May 3, at 8.

The two works are "Seraphic Dialogue" and "Diversion of Angles." Both dance-dramas have been set to the music of Norman Della-Joio.

"Errand Into the Maze," another Graham classic, will be given its first McCarter performance at this concert. The music for this work has been composed by Gian-Carlo Menotti. The program will also include the solo, "Lamentation," to music by Kodaly.

HOPKINS AS SMITH

"...a lot of Bessie in me." That's what Linda Hopkins says about her relationship to the late singer Bessie Smith. "I ain't Bessie," is the way Miss Hopkins puts it, "but there's a whole lot of Bessie in me."

"Me and Bessie," Linda Hopkins' evocation of Bessie Smith, will be played in McCarter Tuesday, May 11, at 8. The full company of the Broadway production, which starred Miss Hopkins, will come to Princeton from the Edison Theatre in New York, by special arrangement with producer Norman Kean.

Bessie Smith spent her teenage years on the black vaudeville circuit, in black clubs and finally, in the biggest theatres that would allow black artists to perform. She made her recording debut in 1923 and from then until 1930, was regarded as the greatest of the blues singers. She died in 1937 and it was only after her death, that the blues, chiefly through a re-issue of her recordings, caught the interest of the public.

LOGGINS! MESSINA!

In Pop Concert. Jadwin Gym, they're saying at McCarter, will "come alive" when Jim Messina and Kenny Loggins bring their special brand of rock music to the big gym Saturday, May 15, at 8. Tickets at McCarter's box-office.

Messina and Loggins teamed up five years ago. Messina was in the Buffalo Springfield band and then co-founded the country-rock group, "Poco". In 1970, he left performing and became a staff producer at Columbia Records. Loggins had written "House at Pooh Corner" for the Nitty Gritty Dirt Band. The pair teamed up during the production of Loggins' first album with Messina."

SEASON NEARS END

With Satire at Intime. Theatre Intime will end its 1975-76 season with a new farce by Christopher Durang, "The Marriage of Bette and Boo," opening this Thursday at 8:30 in Murray Theater on the Princeton University campus.

Durang's script focuses on 26 slices from the lives of the two young marrieds, Bette and Boo, and their families. He pokes vicious fun at the day-to-day cruelties that every family inflicts on its offspring. Bette has been raised to believe that it is her role in life to make baby after baby, yet each baby that is delivered on stage is delivered dead, save for the one who lives to narrate the story.

Directing Intime's production will be Mitchell fvers, a junior in the University's program in theatre and dance. Mr. fvers has directed a number of plays for both Theatre Intime and Summer fntime.

Featured in the cast will be some old fntime familiars and some newer faces. The roles of the young marrieds, Belte and Boo, will be played by Margaret Emory, well remembered for her performance in "The Caucasian Chalk Circle," and Geoff Rich, whose credits include "We're on the One Road" and "The Real Inspector Hound."

Two of fntime's veteran actresses will be making their farewell performances. Winnie Holzman, among whose roles at Intime are Laura in "The Glass Menagerie," Mag in "Lovers," Mrs. Drudge in "The Real Inspector Hound," and Rosalinda the fish in "Oh Dad, Poor Dad" will play Boo's mother, whose name is Mud. Kathie Shenton breaks out of the dumb blonde characterization that made her a delight in "Hay Fever," "As You Like It," "Measure for Measure" and several Triangle shows to portray Bette's sister, Miriam, who has a nervous breakdown as a novice in a convent. Other members of the cast are Arthur Miller, John Meyer, Sam Gruber, Wendy Grabel, Denise Seutter and Howard Telson.

Performances will be Thursday, Friday and Saturday, April 22, 23, 24, 29, 30, and May 1. Tickets, $3.50, and $2.50 for students, are available at The Murray Theater box office. Reservations may be made by calling 452-8181.

PLAYERS LIST DATES

For Drama, "U.S.A." The Princeton Community Players will present the fourth and final play of their season – "U.S.A." by John Dos Passos and Paul Shyre -- in their theatre at 171 Broadmead, with the opening performance on Friday, April 30, at 8:30. The play will run for three weekends, on May 1, 7, 8, 14, 15 at 8:30, and with Sunday performances – May 2 and 9 – at 7:30. Tickets may be reserved by phoning 609-921-3477.

Derived from Dos Passos' earlier novel of the same name, "U.S.A." presents a group of characters living between 1900 and 1930 and also paints vivid pictures of public events, fads, and crises in America during those years. The drama lies in the relation of the central character, J. Ward Morehouse, with the women and men in his life, but it gains added interest for being played in front of the headlines of the period -- Wright brothers, the "Titanic," Rudolph Valentino, World War I, Isadora Duncan, to name only a few.

Judith Forusz, the director, adopts an unusual approach by showing on screens behind the actors actual news pictures of the first third of the century. More realism is obtained by using only authentic clothes of the period.

Marie Miller, who is in charge of costumes, reports that every costume to be used comes out of the Community Players' own collection. The very newest dress will be 45 years old.

Mrs. Forusz, who is president-elect of the Players for next year, is known for having directed "A Thousand Clowns" a year ago. She also taught theatre at the University of Wisconsin and was production stage manager of the Barn Dinner Theatre in St. Louis. Assistant director for "U.S.A." is Daryl Gross, a resident of Fox Run Drive in Plainsboro, who has acted and directed at Rutgers University and at Roosevelt Park in Edison.

Six actors make up the cast, each playing a central character as well as several peripheral ones. Ed Watkinson, who appeared for the Players in "A Thousand Clowns" and "Philadelphia, Here I Come," plays Ward Morehouse.

Diana Crane, remembered in last fall's Nassau Inn Cabaret, as well as for parts in "And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little" and "Madwoman of Chaillot," is both Eleanor Stoddard and Isadora Duncan. Anne Bredon, a veteran of many Players productions, is Morehouse's wife, Gertrude. Norm Friedman, last seen in "A Thousand Clowns," plays a variety of parts, as does Mike Gilbert, who worked for the Players a month ago in "Company."

Melinda Boroson, who has sung in three P.J. and B. choruses and also trouped in the Triangle Club's "Blue Genes" and "Future Schlock," plays Morehouse's secretary Janie. Sheila Clark is choreographing dances of the period.

KURT WEILL

"Threepenny" in New Brunswick. Berthold Brecht and Kurt Weill collaborated on what has become a masterpiece of the musical theatre and it will serve as the final production of the second season at the George Street Playhouse, New Brunswick. It is, of course, "The Threepenny Opera," and it will open at the Playhouse -- 414 George Street -- this Friday at 8:30.

"Threepenny" will play Fridays and Saturdays at 8:30 p.m. and Sunday, May 9 and Sunday, May 16 at 7:30 p.m., closing on Saturday, May 22. Reservations may be made at 201-246-7717.

Musical highlights of the show are "Mack the Knife" and "Pirate Jenny." The plot revolves around the adventures of the infamous Mack the Knife and his band of rogues in the London of the 18th century. Brecht, drawing on "The Beggar's Opera" of John Gay, criticizes the conditions that force men and women into becoming beggars and thieves.

The George Street Playhouse production has been updated slightly by director Peter Bennett, but the Playhouse says the original atmosphere has been preserved. Joseph Culliton will star as Macheath, Fran Ferrone will be his innocent bride Polly, Maris Clement has signed on as Lucy and Marilyn Hudgins will be Pirate Jenny. The cast of 12 doubles -- and sometimes triples -- in smaller roles.

PRINCE

Barry Lyndon. Stanley Kubrick's film of Thackery's 19th century novel about the rise and fall of an ambitious Irish rake is visually stunning and immaculately detailed -- but it has virtually no emotion whatsoever.

The lack of passion on Kubrick's part is deliberate. He rarely focuses upon his characters as individuals but moves them through a progression of living "scenes," many of them are literally reminiscent of paintings by Gainsborough and Hogarth.

Despite its beauty, its lush photography, Barry Lyndon is more to be admired than enjoyed. Ryan O'Neill is the rogue who uses equal measures of luck and larceny to rise to eminence only to end up in disgrace and destitution.

Love and Anarchy and The Seduction of Mimi -- two films by Lina Wertmuller, the prolific Italian director.

"Love and Anarchy" is an intense, if occasionally strident, tale of a staunch Italian peasant who sets out to assassinate Mussolini at the height of the dictator's power in the 1930s. While he is hidden in a Roman brothel, his conflict between political action and lure of the flesh ends tragically and neither sex nor political expediency emerge as winners. Giancarlo Giannini is superb as the peasant.

Only 89 minutes long and, like "Love and Anarchy," one of Ms. Wertmuller's earlier films, "Seduction of Mimi" is a consistently pleasant Italian social comedy.

It is about the rise and fall of a Sicilian blue-collar worker named Mimi, again well played by Giancarlo Giannini, and his encounters with women, politics, the Mafia and his fellow workers. It has one of the most hilarious seduction scenes ever filmed.

GLEE CLUB TO SING

In French Tradition. For the first time in many years, the Princeton University Glee Club will present a concert entirely devoted to music drawn from the French tradition on Sunday evening at 8:30 in Alexander Hall.

Beginning the evening be the mass "Missa de beata virgine" by the famous Renaissance composer Josquin Des Pres. According to Professor Walter Nollner, Conductor of the chorus, "This is the most difficult and in many ways the most celebrated of Josquin's large number of masses. It is very seldom performed because of its great difficulty, and it will be the first time that I have attempted to perform a Josquin mass with the entire Glee Club."

The second half of the program will be devoted to the famous "Requiem" by the French composer Gabriel Faure, complete with orchestra, organ and soloists. The composer's father died in 1885, and Faure immediately set about composing a musical setting of the Requiem mass.

The first performance took place at his church in 1888. The fame of the work spread slowly, and the first English performance did not take place until well into the 20th century. It is now probably one of the half-dozen most performed sacred compositions for chorus and orchestra, even though it was the only large work in a sacred vein that Faure ever wrote.

Tickets for the concert are at the Princeton University Store and will be at the Alexander Hall Box Office on the night of the concert.

Pianist Alfred Brendel 'Flamboyantly Romantic'

Pianist Alfred Brendel, who performed on the Princeton University Concert Series at McCarter Theatre on Monday evening, April 19, is an unashamedly, even flamboyantly romantic pianist.

His music is both tangible and evocative, his manner passionate and abandoned. His temperament and easy virtuosity are perfectly suited to the quicksilver moods of the Liszt works he performed. These three pieces from "Harmonies Poetiques et Religieuses" range through astoundingly different musical terrain.

The first, "Pensees des morts," begins with shadowy chords from which a recitative-like melody spirals. It later breaks into torrents of pianistic pirouettes, whose relationship to the earlier material one can only guess at. Equally strange are the Chopinesque maledictions and other glimmers of this composer whom Liszt so greatly admired.

The "Benediction de Dieu dans la Solitude," also has strange vagaries, though as a whole this work is more meditative. Brendel captured the lightness of the fluttering motif of the opening with a clear and facile touch. He also shaped the piece admirably, taking into account the large, even shocking differences among the many sections of the piece.

The last of the three pieces, "Funerailles," moved in even more and more sharply contrasting directions than did the preceding work. The pulsing of octaves in the bass, which opens this work somberly, later gives way to fantastic pianistic flourishes, which again sink to nothing.

Again the references to Chopin, again the surprise of being transported instantaneously into other regions. Brendel transmitted the sense of flow of the music, the ever-strange juxtapositions, and the tenuous connections which make these pieces.

The other works on the program were not as exciting, but each for its own reasons. Brendel's performance of J.S. Bach's "Chromatic Fantasy and Fugue in D minor," BWV 903, was both pianistic and romantic. He had a clear conception of the piece and did make it work, but only at the expense of the original.

This was clearly Brendel-Bach. The pedaling at times blurred the intricate lines, especially in the Fugue. The Fantasy was also done in an almost whimsical manner which glossed over many of the finer details.

The "15 Variations with Fugue on a Theme from 'Prometheus,' in E Major, Opus 35," received an exciting performance. However, the motley group of variations somehow seems overdone. The droll spots, such as "Variation IX," provided some sense of relief. Also, the performance of the fugal finale worked well. Indeed Brendel's stamina and control were admirable. Somehow the piece is not.

Brendel is a pianist with a romantic prejudice. When he performs music which is enhanced by this predilection, he is powerful.

CONCERT SUNDAY

At All Saints' Church. Three soloists will perform with the Collegium Musicum of Princeton on Sunday at 8 at All Saints' Church. In its fourth annual Spring Concert under the leadership of its conductor, Joseph Kovacs, this chamber orchestra will be augmented by members of the Princeton Community Orchestra for the 11th in the Trinity - All Saints' Series of Concerts and Musical Services.

Opening with the Rodrigo Suite of Handel, the program will include Albinoni's Concerto in C major for two oboes, strings and cembalo and the Concerto No. 2 in F minor by Chooin. Oboists Martha Helms and Ruth Dahlke will be heard in the Albinoni, while the Chopin will be performed by the 12-year-old pianist, Cynthia Khachadurian.

Ruth Dahlke, who is responsible for the embellishments of the two solo parts in the Albinoni concerto, teaches oboe, history and chamber music at Douglas College and performs with the Douglas Faculty Woodwind Quintet. Martha Helms, formerly a member of the Atlanta Symphony, studied at Oberlin Conservatory and the Mozarteum in Salzburg, and is presently oboist with the Greater Trenton Symphony and a member of the Trenton State Faculty Woodwind Quintet.

The men and women will join together to sing the "Missa in Tempore Belli," by Franz Joseph Haydn with full orchestra. Soloists will be Judith Feder, soprano; Mary Ellen Miller, alto; Lester Erich, tenor; William R. Trego, bass.

William R. Trego will direct the women in their selections, with Nancianne Parrella accompanying. Antoine du Bourg and James Little will direct the men's glee club, while Mr. Little will conduct both groups in the Haydn.

PIANO RECITALS SET

By Friends of Music. Two pianists sponsored by the Friends of Music will give concerts this weekend at the Woolworth Center on the University campus.

Anne Paolini, a junior majoring in Romance languages, will perform Saturday at 8:30. Her program will include Schubert's Sonata in A Major; Chopin, Etudes No. 9, Opus 25, No. 2, Opus 25 and No. 5, Opus 10 and Scherzo in B-flat Minor, Opus 31; and Beethoven's Sonata, Opus 53.

Miss Paolini is a native of Buffalo, N.Y., where she has given many recitals. She has studied piano with Robert Helps in New York and with Patricia Arden. She has been accompanist and soloist with the Freshman Singers and was accompanist last year for the Princeton University Glee Club.

On Sunday at 3, also in Woolworth Center, Susan A. Mandel will present a program which will include works by Hayden, Mendelssohn, Bartok, Ives, Poulenc, Gershwin and Schumann.

Ms. Mandel has appeared in Princeton on several occasions and last year was the winner of the concerto competition conducted by the University Orchestra and subsequently performed with the Orchestra.

Princeton Pianist Award Winner In Statewide Competition at 12

Cynthia Khachadurian

Youngsters struggling at weekly piano lessons may take inspiration from 12-year old Cynthia Khachadurian of 22 Philip Drive who last week placed second and won the $250 Margaret Craig Weaver Award for Excellence in the First Annual Youth Awards sponsored by the New Jersey Symphony Orchestra. Music lovers of any age may hear her play the piece with which she won the competition, the Chopin Piano Concerto No. 2 in F Minor with the Collegium Musicum Sunday at 8 at All Saints' Church.

Cynthia was one of the youngest to compete in the statewide competition open to pianists and string instrumentalists under 22. She had to commit to memory a whole recital program of works by Liszt, Beethoven, Bach and Ravel, as well as a piano concerto for the first audition in late February. At that time, 18 semi-finalists were selected to compete in two further auditions in mid-March. Six emerged to play with the New Jersey Symphony on April 9 and several were students at Juilliard and the Curtis Institute in Philadelphia.

Daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Avedis Khachadurian, Cynthia has been studying piano for about seven years, first under Mrs. Iona Aharonian and Mrs. Isabella Leviton and most recently under Dr. Thomas Tichener of Douglass College. She is a 7th grader at John Witherspoon School who thrives on competition.

She won first prize at the age of 9 in the North Shore Philharmonic auditions. At 11 she won first prize in the Mercer County Symphonic Orchestra auditions and last November won the New Jersey State Award at the New Jersey Music Teachers competition at Glassboro College in the junior high school category.

Eager to get on to a music school such as Juilliard or Curtis, she hopes to accelerate directly to Princeton High School next year and complete those four years in three. Earlier this year she won a Packet essay contest and will be using that award money to rent the piano for Sunday's concert. As if that weren't enough for one weekend, she will enter the Grindhart Competition in Trenton on Saturday which is open to 7th and 8th graders and should be something of an anti-climax for her.

When she isn't playing the piano or doing her school work, Cynthia practices the violin.

To further her musical education she began studying as a private pupil with Joseph Kovacs under whose direction she will perform Sunday. Mr. Kovacs has been quoted as saying of his pupil's piano playing, "They don't come along this good very often."

SOPRANO TO SING

In Choir College Recital. Westminster Choir College will present soprano Susan Robinson as a part of its Faculty Recital Series on Monday evening at 8:30 in the College Playhouse. Admission is free.

Miss Robinson, who has given frequent recitals in the Princeton area and is a regular soloist at All Saints' Church in Princeton, holds degrees from the University of Pennsylvania and Syracuse University. In addition to teaching at Westminster, she is currently a voice student of John McClain, a Princeton resident and graduate of the Choir College.

Robert deCoriolis, who will accompany her, is a coach-accompanist at the Academy of Vocal Arts in Philadelphia. He is also a rehearsal accompanist for the Philadelphia Lyric Opera.

The concert will be an all Latin program, with music of Vivaldi, Schutz, Mozart, Hindemith, as well as two American composers, Horatio Parker and Warren Martin, who was a former member of the Choir College faculty.

Correction

The hour was incorrectly given in last week's account of the concert of Judith Shatin's music to be presented this Friday in the Woolworth Center on the Princeton University campus.

The correct hour is 8:30 p.m. The concert of Ms. Shatin's works is free and the public is invited to attend.

By University. Peter C. Bunnell, Director of The Art Museum, Princeton University, has announced that a group of paintings, watercolors, drawings and sculptures by Cezanne, van Gogh, Degas, Toulouse-Lautrec, Soutine and other modern masters in the collection of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Pearlman and the Henry and Rose Pearlman Foundation will be placed on extended loan to Princeton for a period of two years.

The Pearlman Collection is one of the most remarkable American private collections in terms of its scope and depth. It includes one of the largest and finest groups of Cezanne watercolors in either public or private collections, representing works ranging from the 1880's to a major still life believed to have been the artist's last work.

The collection includes major oils by Cezanne, among them "La Montagne Sainte-Victoire," and the famous "Tarascon Diligence" by Vincent van Gogh, as well as important works by Pissarro, Manet, Renoir, Pascin, Modigliani, and Kokoschka. Sculpture in wood, bronze, and stone by Gauguin, Lehmbruck, Lipchitz, Modigliani, and Manzu are also represented in the collection.

The collection, which will arrive at the museum in late June, will not be placed on exhibition in totality; rather, works will be incorporated into various exhibitions of the museum during the summer. Periodic changes in the installation will be made throughout the next two years. The Pearlman Collection was last shown at Princeton in 1974, when it was lent for three months.

Mr. Bunnell, in commenting on the loan, stressed the significant opportunity that the loan provides for the university in terms of the teaching program in the history of art. Special seminars are planned to focus on particular artists as well as on individual works. In addition, numerous public activities will be held, including lectures and special gallery presentations.

DUTCH RUNNERS DUE

In International Relay Race. Princeton will be one of the more than 20 stops in a 266-mile international Bicentennial relay race, as runners from Maastricht, the Netherlands, carry a torch of friendship from New York to Washington, D.C. The four-day race, known as Torch 200, will be held from Wednesday, April 21, to Saturday, and the runners will be in Mercer County Thursday morning.

Dutch athletes, dressed in green and brown sweatsuits, will be seen carrying an olympic-style brass torch at 10 on their way to Trenton. Averaging nine miles per hour, runners will cover two miles each before extending the torch to the next racer.

School children and residents are expected to greet the runners and their official party, which includes the Deputy Mayor of Maastricht. This Bicentennial relay race has been organized by the Federation of European American Organizations (FEAO) and the city of Maastricht as a special tribute to this country and will follow the approximate route of the Continental Army.

Much of the sensation we call "taste" is really smell. When you chew foods, the vapors enter the inner openings of the nose and reach the nerve endings of smell. If you have a cold, these passages are plugged up. Then, as you may have noticed, your sense of smell is also impaired, and many foods may lack the flavor with which we associate them. Under such conditions, onions and apples have an almost identical sweet flavor. Substances such as pepper and some other spices have no distinct flavor, but irritate the entire tongue and produce a burning sensation.

TIGER NINE MOVES UP

In Eastern League Race. A pair of three-hitters, each of which earned a shutout, raised Princeton's stock Saturday in the Eastern Baseball League. Mike French blanked Navy 3-0 in the opener and Mark Softy made life easy for himself as he fanned 12 in the seven-inning nightcap, winning 5-0.

The Tigers' fate in the 1976 race will largely be determined this weekend. With defending champion Penn victor in eight of its first nine games, Princeton almost certainly will have to defeat Columbia Friday and gain an even split in its doubleheader against the Quakers Saturday if it is to keep them in sight. A year ago, Penn won both games at Clarke Field by identical scores of 3-2.

In blanking the midshipmen here, the Orange and Black beat a couple of good pitchers. Lou Repucci, loser in the first game, had won his last six league games in a row, while Scott Thomas, who suffered through the five-run third in the nightcap, came into the contest with a 4-0 mark.

A pair of walks and a two-run single by Greg Adams in the bottom half of the first gave French all the margin he needed, as he ran his string of scoreless innings in league play this spring to 14. Designated-hitter Bob Flaherty added to his .300-plus batting average with a pair of singles.

Valuable Homer. A pair of doubles by Captain Glenn Christy and a 335-foot homer with two aboard by catcher Jack Basta lent considerable authority to Princeton's offense in the second game. Basta's blow sailed well over the fence about 10 feet inside the left foul post.

Softy, who had come apart in the nightcap against Brown a week earlier, four days after having had a seven-run inning inflicted on him by Rutgers, returned to the form that has had major league scouts looking at him as he won easily in the second game. Each of three times the losers placed men in scoring position Softy struck out a batter to end the inning.

The twin shutouts left Navy wondering what it should bring to Princeton beside bats to dent Tiger pitching. Last time the midshipmen were here, in 1974, they also failed to score in two games.

Successful Week. After winning only five of its first 14 games, Coach Len Rivers' team captured all four on its schedule last week. The triumphs preceding the victories over Navy were a 5-3 setback of Villanova and a 7-2 defeat of Manhattan.

French and Softy divided the pitching assignment, the latter working the final five to gain the decision. All three of the losers' runs were charged to French, the last on a solo homer on which rightfielder Kevin Plunkett was hurt when he ran into the wire fence chasing it.

Runs without the benefit of much hitting accrued to the Tigers' total. Two walks, a wild pitch and four stolen bases provided the first two they scored, and later another walk in a bases-loaded situation forced him their third run.

Junior Bob Tufts had a shutout going into the ninth inning against Manhattan but needed relief from sophomore Andy Kannenberg to end the game. He got help early and often at the plate as the Orange and Black opened with two in the first and added clusters of two in both the fourth and fifth.

The victors' nine-hit attack, which included two doubles, was greatly enhanced by the half dozen errors Manhattan committed. Kevin Kaufman's single and two-bagger in four trips paced the Princeton offense.

Princeton 19, LIU 3. Monday's game on Clarke Field against Long Island University went into history as one of the few called by the umpires with the sun shining on a bone dry field. After Princeton had scored its 19th run in the bottom of the seventh, had the bases loaded and two outs left, the men in blue decided everybody had had enough and could head for the showers.

Actually, LIU enjoyed a brief lead in the eventual massacre, holding a 3-0 bulge when the Tigers came to bat in the second. Five runs took care of , and after being blanked in the third, the home team added three in the fourth, a single tally in the fifth and five more in the sixth and in the abbreviated seventh.

Dennis Flaherty showed again why he is Len Rivers' designated hitter as he collected four singles in five trips good for four RBIs. Ed Kuchar had only one hit, but his triple came with the bases full and sent three more runners across, while reserve shortstop Scott Sullivan's double was equally productive.

Sophomore Matt Gorman was the starting pitcher, giving up all the losers' runs before classmate Paul Zoubec replaced him and worked 4 and two thirds innings to gain his first decision. The victory raised Princeton's record to 10-8-1, its best mark in two years, and was its fifth straight.

A game with Rutgers here Wednesday afternoon preceded the Eastern League contests at New York and Philadelphia. They will be followed by a trip Sunday to play Fairleigh-Dickenson at Teaneck.

Wagner will be here Tuesday and Temple Wednesday, as the prolonged dry spell finds the Orange and Black playing every game on the busiest schedule in its history. Three more league games are on tap the weekend of April 30 and May 1, a single contest with Cornell and a twin bill against Army, all on Clarke Field.

The three this Friday and Saturday will, however, settle much of the question of whether the Tigers can win the Eastern League championship. They have not done so in nearly a quarter of a century.

LACROSSE TEAM SPLITS

With Brown and Yale. Loser of five of its first six games this spring, Princeton's lacrosse team dominated Yale Saturday on Clarke Field. The 14-8 triumph over the Elis was preceded by a 16-9 drubbing at the hands of Brown at Providence.

The Tigers are now even in Ivy play and 2-5 overall. They

SPORTS FANS! I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW

Brought to you By John Bernard

If the Cincinnati Reds win the World Series this year they'll do something that hasn't been done for a long time...It's hard to believe, but NO National League team has won the World Series two years in a row for 53 YEARS!...Last time a National League team won the World Series two straight years was 1921 and 1922 when the Giants did it...That doesn't seem logical, but you can look it up and see that it's true.

Here's a tricky sports puzzler...See if you can name the three sports in which the winners cross the finish line GOING BACKWARDS...Not many people can name all three...Here are the answers...Rowing, tug-of-war and backstroke swimming.

Did you know that a man once won a professional boxing match by beating a fighter who outweighed him by 140 POUNDS!...Bob Fitzsimmons, who held various boxing championships between 1891 and 1905, once fought a man named Ed Dunkhorst...For this fight, Fitzsimmons weighed 165 pounds while Dunkhorst weighed 305, and Fitzsimmons beat him.

will be at Hanover Saturday to play Dartmouth and do not see action on Finney Fleld again until a game with Cornell on May 8.

A low-scoring first period in the game with Yale saw the Blue draw even midway through the round but trail, 2-1, as it ended. By the intermission, the Tigers had increased their margin to 6-2, and they added to their advantage during the final half.

Wick Sollers and Dave Tickner accounted for 50 percent of the victors' total. The latter added three assist to his four goals, Sollers two. They are running a tight race for individual scoring honors: after eight games, Tickner has 31 points and Sollers 30.

Ranked the top team in New England, Brown gained revenge for its loss here last season. The Bruins led throughout, holding an 11-8 advantage after three periods and then outscoring the losers in the final quarter, 5 to 1.

CREW WINS ANOTHER

But Going Will Be Rougher. After two races this spring, Princeton's varsity crew is unbeaten. Nonetheless, the opposition in its next three races is so strong that there is some question whether it can win again this season.

The Tigers will row Saturday on the Schuylkill River with Penn defending the Childs Cup and Columbia the third entry. The Tigers last won the trophy in 1965, and the Quakers are favored again.

At Annapolis last week, Coach Pete Sparhawk's oarsmen were even with Navy at the 1,000-meter mark but outrowedd the midshipmen in the final half of the race. They won by three-quarters of a length in good time of 5:57.4 on the tidal river. Navy won the race for the second varsities but the Tiger freshmen were also victorious.

On Carnegie Lake this weekend, the regatta among 150-lb. crews of Cornell, Rutgers and Princeton, which was erroneously listed here last week as scheduled for last weekend, will be held. The Tiger lightweights lost last Saturday to Navy at Annapolis.

PLAYOFF WON

. At Springdale. A fine 65 by the team of Jack Mudge, Wendell Briethaupt, Dean Chace and John Miller gave it first place in a three-way playoff in the Scramblers Tournament at Springdale Golf Club. They had tied a week ago at 69 with one foursome of Eddie Donovan, Cornelius Arnett, Mike Curtin and Steve Fillo (the runners-up in the playoff) and another of Bill Quackenbush, Alan Poole, Paul Schafer and Paul Hurley.

The annual Harry Kinnell Tournament will be held Saturday and Sunday, April 30 and May 1. Entrants will compete in 36 holes of stroke play using full handicaps.

PHS VS. HUN

On Diamond Thursday. With a backhand to physics, two Princeton baseball teams moving in opposite directions will converge Thursday.

Princeton High School, which lost two one-run decisions last week to add more misery to its poor start, will play host to neighboring Hun School at 3:45 on Thursday. In contrast, Hun erupted for 41 runs in its last two starts, winning four of its first five.

The Little Tigers will come right back the next day, meeting Steinert on Friday and then Notre Dame on Tuesday. Like the Hun contest, both will be played at 3:45 at the PHS diamond and if the Blue and White hopes to turn its season around it will have to do well in this three-game home series; its next six are away.

No one works harder at the game than PHS coach Jim O'Neill but he must be wondering if the ball is ever going to bounce his way.

Against Lawrenceville School last week, PHS battled back from a 6-2 deficit to tie the game at six in the fourth inning on a four-run rally that was highlighted by a two-run homer by sophomore Dave Miller, who O'Neill had just brought up from the jayvee squad.

Unbeaten Lawrenceville won it in the next inning, however, when it combined a walk and captain Seth Waugh's triple for a 7-6 victory. Alex Robertson was the losing pitcher and Dana Nini of Lawrenceville got the win. PHS also had a triple from Dave Robinson, a double by Scott Thompson and a pair of singles off the bat of centerfielder Paul Soderman.

The previous day against St. Anthony's, the Little Tigers played errorless ball, rapped out eight hits including three by sophomore Al Kandell, who batted in two runs, and two by Dave Robinson. John Boccanfuso, Soderman and Keith Phox also hit safely. So much for the pluses.

All this was undone on the mound where four PHS hurlers – underlying Princeton's weakness on the mound – issued 12 passes, eight in the last two innings. After the Iron Mikes had scored a run in the bottom of the last inning to earn a 2-2 tie, PHS promptly scored two more in the eighth to go ahead.

But to O'Neill's dismay, that illusive first win slipped away again when PHS walked in three runs to hand St. Anthony a 5-4 win. Kandell worked the first five innings and left with the Mikes ahead 1-0. (Winning pitcher Mark Grochala had a no-hitter for the first five innings.) He was followed by Mike Boonin, Boccanfuso and Alex Robertson. Boccanfuso was charged with the loss.

Ivy Title in Golf

Princeton University's golf team won the Ivy League title Friday in a one-day tournament staged at Springdale. The team's total for 36 holes was 600, 12 better than runner-up Harvard.

Next day, Princeton's tennis team virtually sewed up another Eastern League title with an 8-1 conquest of Navy. The midshipmen had been considered a strong threat to the Tigers' supremacy, which is built on a streak of 20 straight victories over the last three years.

Six more matches remain, the most difficult expected to be the one on May 7 with Harvard at Cambridge.

be at Morristown Tuesday and was scheduled to play host to Montclair this Wednesday at 3:30 while the girls softball team will be at South Brunswick Thursday and play host to Steinert Tuesday in a 3:45 contest.

DELBARTON NEXT

For PDS Nine. A combination of errors and other miscues have left the Princeton Day baseball team at 0-3 so far this season, with the Panthers scheduled to journey to Delbarton this Friday for a game at 3:45. A contest against Montclair was scheduled to be played this Wednesday afternoon.

Last week the Blue and White lost two, one by a wide margin, 18-4, to Hun, the other a pitcher's battle, 3-0, against Blair. Errors played a big part in both defeats.

Against Blair on Friday Dave Barondess turned in a superb pitching performance, giving up just three hits and two bases on balls over the course of the seven-inning contest, but was undone by three errors by his teammates, each of which led to a run.

Meanwhile, the Panthers had several scoring chances, but could not manage to push any runs across. Two rallies were ended by double plays, one on a fine play by the Blair third baseman, who took away a possible two-base hit from Bill Baggitt. On two other occasions, PDS base runners were hit by batted balls, which were headed into the outfield as base hits.

"We have been hurt by our lack of scrimmages," commented coach Tom Devito. "The mistakes the boys are making now are the kind that should have been corrected in pre-season games."

Last Tuesday, against Hun, PDS got off on the right foot scoring two runs in the top of the first inning, but Hun answered with four in its half. PDS fielders were only guilty of four errors officially, but several fly balls that fell as base hits were simply misjudged.

The game was close for three innings, and then Hun scored eight runs in the fourth and added five more in the fifth.

Approaching darkness mercifully precluded Hun from sending any more men to the plate after the fifth inning. The winners had 20 hits in all, three or four on misjudged fly balls.

TONY TRANI ACCEPTED

By Princeton University. Princeton's Tony Trani, a fine-shooting guard who owns the Hun School career record of 1,301 points and who starred with Jim Sweeney in the backcourt for Lawrenceville School this past winter, has been accepted at Princeton University. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony "Red" Trani of Snowden Lane.

A playmaker at both Hun and Lawrenceville, Trani was also a fine defensive player and should fit well into Princeton University's style of play. Tiger coach Pete Carril was quoted as saying the 5-10 Trani would be asked to run the offense of the freshman team.

SOCCER TEAMS BUSY

As Spring Season Begins. The Princeton Soccer Club began its season with all 19 teams in its four leagues taking part. In the Cub League, Allen's defeated Petrinferno's, 1-0, Tiger Auto beat Callaway Real Estate, 2-1, and the Princeton Pizza Palace downed the Gallup Poll, 3-0.

In the Juniors, it was Hinkson's 1, Princeton Printing Company 0; Stefanelli's 4, U-Store 1; and LaVake's 4, Earth Shoe 0. All Cub and Junior games were played at the Valley Road School field.

The action in the two older leagues took place at Gulick Field on the Princeton University campus. The scores of the two Intermediate League games were Laidlaw-Coggeshall 1, Varsity Sport Shop, 0; and Hulits 2, Nassau Hobby 0. The Seniors played a three team round robin with these results: Lahiere 1, Princeton Savings & Loan 0; Lahiere 0, First National Bank 0; and Princeton Savings & Loan 0, First National Bank 0.

Play in all four leagues resumes again Saturday and will continue until the league playoffs at the end of May.

HUN BATTERS EXPLODE

For Two Big Wins. It may not have been finessing or artistic but it was overpowering baseball.

Hun School (4-1) exploded for 41 runs in two games last week to add a pair of wins to the record and as coach Bill McQuade pointed out, "It was good for the morale." The victims were Friends Central, 23-11, and Princeton Day School, 18-4.

After a week's vacation, Hun will play Princeton High School Thursday at 3:45 at PHS; Lawrenceville School at home on Saturday at 2 and Pennsylvania School for the Deaf Wednesday in Pennsylvania. It was scheduled to resume this Wednesday at Perkiomen.

"We have a lot of games coming up and I think the next two weeks will decide what kind of season we'll have," said McQuade.

Against winless Friends Central last week, Hun scored seven in the first inning and then broke the game open with a 10-run fourth which sent 14 players to the plate.

Jack Porcelli and Jim Cortina homered for Hun, while winning pitcher Ernie Barbiero and Pete Sciabetta each connected for a triple.

"It wasn't a well played game; it was kind of sloppy," said McQuade. Twenty-three runs on 14 hits...that isn't good." The game was marred by ten errors, six by the Quakers. Barbiero's record is now 2-1.

Teel Hits Two. Hun spotted rival Princeton Day School two runs in the first but then came right back. It teed off against PDS starter Mike Walters in its half of the first inning for four runs, including a three-run homer by Tim Teel. Teel's second homer with a man on sparked a fourth-inning Hun uprising which sent eight men across the plate.

Teel added a double in going 4-for-5 with five runs batted in. Designated hitter sophomore Bobby Innocenzi batted 4-for-4, prompting McQuade to quip, "He may never see the field," and first baseman Tom Dillione was 3-for-4. Sciabetta was 3-for-3 in this game for fatting batting averages. Overall, Hun is batting at a .397 team clip.

Sciabetta, Bob Mendelson, Tom Dunn and Teel all hit doubles, while Cortina and Ken Duvin rapped triples for Hun. PDS, which had trouble catching the ball in the outfield, committed four errors.

Tom Summers, who struck out eight, picked up his second win without a loss for Hun.

The game started at 4 but was called after five and a half innings at 6:30 because of darkness. "It just kept going and going," said McQuade.

90-Degree Heat Slows Marathon Runners

It was 93 degrees in Hopkinton, Mass. at the start of Monday's Boston Marathon but Richard Gillespie, 45, of 8 Winant Road and Dr. Charles Clark, 39, of 50 Valley Road both managed to finish the 26-mile, 385-yard race. Mr. Gillespie ran it in 4 hours 5 minutes. Dr. Clark's time was unavailable when TOWN TOPICS went to press.

The winner was Jack Fultz, a 27-year-old Georgetown University graduate student from Arlington, Va. who covered the distance in 2 hours, 20 minutes, 19 seconds, nearly 10 minutes slower than last year's record. Kim Merritt, a 20-year old University of Wisconsin student, was the top woman runner. She finished 165th at 2:47.19.

There were 1,898 numbered entrants, of which Dr. Clark was one, as well as several hundred un-numbered runners like Mr. Gillespie who had hoped to run under 3.30 and earn the right to wear a number. After 3½ hours, 1,168 had crossed the finish line.

There were 15 known cases of runners who required hospital attention as a result of the record-breaking heat. However, as the afternoon wore on and the runners came closer to Boston harbor, a sea breeze sprang up and the temperature dropped to a more comfortable 68.

All-Star Game Set

Shawn Craig, Felix Brown and Rob McPherson of Princeton High, Hun's Terry McEwen and Tony Trani of Lawrenceville School have been selected to play on the New Jersey All-Star team in the fourth annual Joint Effort Classic to be held Friday evening, April 23, at 8 in Dillon Gym. They will play an all-star team from New York.

Three members of the Princeton University basketball team and Tiger coach Pete Carril will be honored at the game. Tickets are $2 and $1 for childreo.
